Watch your hands!
J. Garrido, Mr. Monsell

Dedication

IN recognition of his many years of patient and conscientious service, his cautious almost fatherly concern in the training, conditioning and supervising aspects of his responsibilities as both teacher and departmental chairman, THE 1965 COLONIAL proudly salutes WILBUR MONSELL, chairman of Hempstead High School's Industrial Arts Department, who with never-ending encouragement and professional skill leads the young people in his shop to discover and develop their own interests, attitudes and abilities for industrial occupations.

In Memory Of

DONALD E. SMITH

DONALD E. SMITH, for forty years a member of the Hempstead Public School System, died at his home on December 12, 1964. Since June, 1964, he had been Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Adult Education. In 1931, Mr. Smith was named principal of the Hempstead Junior High School and six years later he became principal of Prospect Street Elementary School. Since 1945, he had been director of Adult Education for the Hempstead School District. The Professional Service Award of the New York Association of Public School Adult Educators was presented him in May, 1964, for outstanding achievements in this field. Most recently he had also been affiliated with the Hempstead Community Ambassador Project. Primarily a quiet, retiring individual, he much preferred working unheralded behind the scenes. Yet, his dedicated service did not pass unnoticed and he will long be remembered for it.

Friends Departed

MRS. MARGARET GRANT, teacher in the Art Department, died on December 5, 1964. During the five years she taught at Hempstead, Mrs. Grant won the respect and admiration of both faculty and students. She was a graduate of Pratt Institute of Technology and during World War II she was a pilot in the W.A.A.F.S., flying target-towing planes for pilot trainees. As an art teacher, she was always willing to help, but never let her own ideas dominate the students' work.

Mrs. Grant's influence extended for beyond the range of the art classes. Always cheerful and always prepared to carry on a lively conversation, she took a sincere interest in the activities of the school and of her students. Her school spirit was a true inspiration—she always attended baseball games, wrestling matches, football scrimmages; no one knew the athletic schedules better than she. For four years she was advisor to the art staff of the Colonial.

Although her death was untimely, her memory will linger in our halls for years to come.

Foreword

AS we, the students of Hempstead High, go through our daily rhythm of classes, we are often struck by the diverse types of people we see in the halls: the robust athlete, jostling his way toward the boys' locker room amidst an aura of strength and manliness; the intellectual, a slight bespectacled figure meekly submitting to the crush of the masses, his mind on some far-away physics problem; the avid art lover, humming a folk tune to herself en route to a play rehearsal.

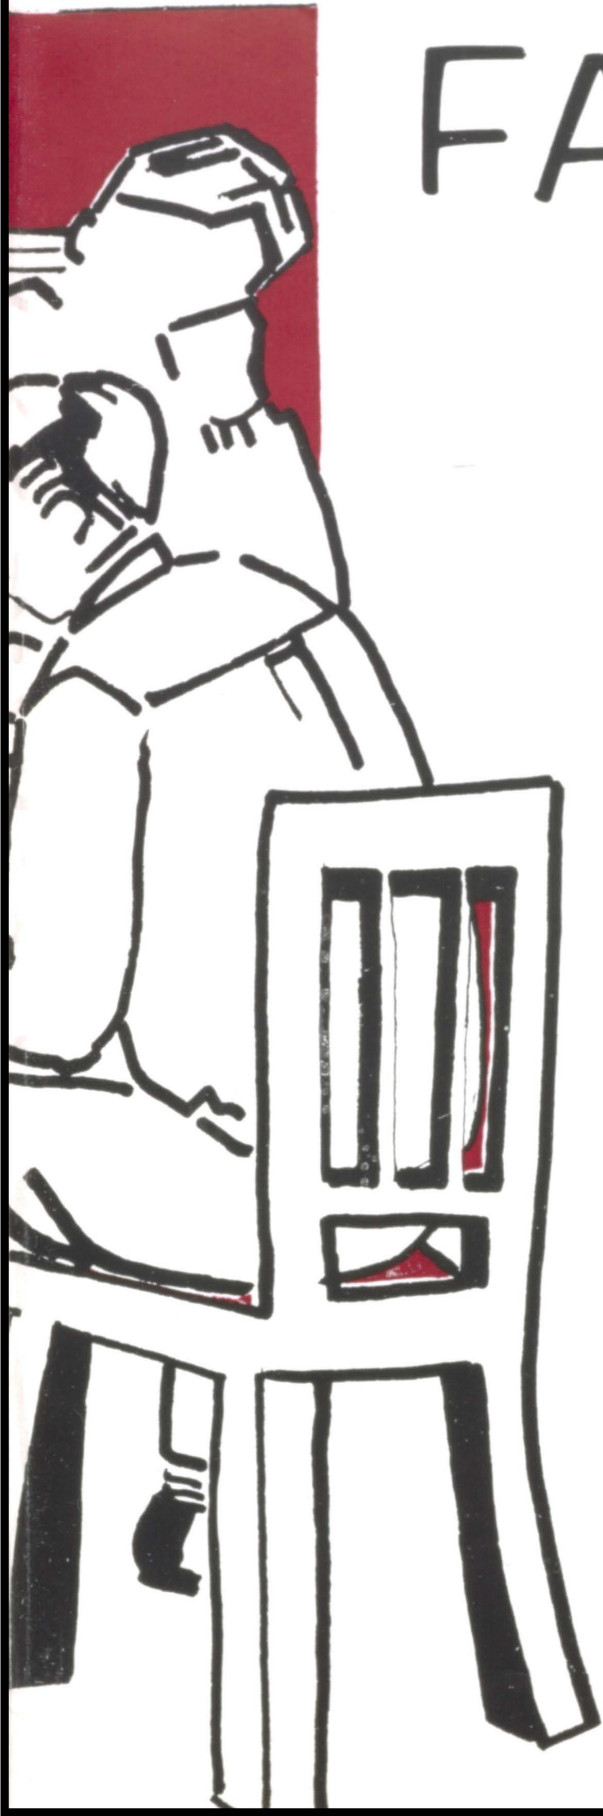

These types and many more inhabit our halls and classrooms every day, and each of them brings a different attitude toward the high school experience. Yet the wonder is that they are all unified by that indefinable force called school spirit. School spirit is that surging pride that is felt when we score a touchdown or a basket. It is the uproarious "in" jokes about the idiosyncracies of teachers. It is the noisy jubilation on a bus after a victorious basketball game and the silent dejection after defeat. Essentially it is the most memorable part of high school: the comradeship arising from shared experiences, which on a larger scale is known as brotherhood.

ARTHUR WICKHAM

No More Pencils, No More Books

THE booming voice of Mr. Arthur Wickham, long-time social studies teacher, will no longer be heard around school. After thirty-three years, the last twenty spent here, he retired to Maine, where he owns and operates a summer camp. Later his retirement will be interrupted by a trip around the world with his wife. Hailing from Carthage, New York, Mr. Wickham earned his B.S. and M.A. at New York University. He has been a past president of the Cortland State Teachers' College Alumni and Suffolk County Schoolmen's Association. During W.W. II he served as a naval officer in the Aleutians. When asked what he would miss about Hempstead High, he replied: "It's probably working with the students who go all out." And Hempstead High will miss a teacher who went all out for them.

JOINING the Hempstead Public Schools during 1933, Miss Doty has known its three recent superintendents. She first became secretary to Dr. William Gore, then to his successor, Dr. W. Amos Kincaid, during whose administration in 1947 she was appointed District Clerk to the Hempstead Board of Education. Later she became Executive Assistant, which position she held until retirement last February during Dr. Sheldon's superintendency. Her duties have involved aspects of budget-expenditures, payrolls and bond issues for a district whose budget amounted to almost five million dollars. As District Clerk she recorded minutes for all board meetings and conducted all board correspondence. Now relieved of responsibilities of being watchdog for a multi-million dollar district budget, she anticipates leisure time for traveling, pursuing painting, gardening and other hobbies for which till now time had been limited. And The Colonial wishes her well.

SCHOOL BOARD

The Power Elite

FOLLOWING precedents established long ago, the Hempstead Board of Education continues to maintain high standards of control and management of the Hempstead Public Schools. This year's members, under the leadership of Mr. William Urquhart, Jr., President, include: Mr. John M. Serenci, Vice-President; Mr. William B. F. Lindemberger, Treasurer; Dr. Richard Pasternak, Secretary; Mr. C. H. Tunncliffe Jones, School Attorney; and Mr. Russel G. Booth. At meetings monthly in public session, such matters as the establishment of district policies, money appropriations and tax rates are discussed and decided. This year the board lost the services of its long-time district clerk, Margaret Doty. Her position is tentatively being filled by Dr. Sheldon. Perhaps the most ambitious and prodigious undertaking this year was the decision to embark upon the building of a new senior high school and the renovating of the present one into a middle school for grades six through eight.

JAMES T. BEALE
Executive Assistant

The Chief Executive

DR. THOMAS D. SHELDON is the extremely capable man who fills the post of chief executive of the Hempstead Public Schools and of advisor to the Board of Education. This superintendency makes great demands on all facets of his executive ability. Among his varied tasks include fulfilling various community engagements, attending all board meetings, supervising and hiring teachers and other employees, and recommending and initiating Hempstead's educational policies. His astute knowledge of educational matters continues to maintain the school district's reputation as a leading educational system. Under Dr. Sheldon, the Hempstead Public Schools will continue to offer first-quality education.

Superintendent's Assistants

WITH the untimely death in December, 1964, of Donald E. Smith, Assistant Superintendent for Curriculum and Adult Education, Dr. Sheldon was faced with filling the first of two critical positions. As of the present writing, it is understood that candidates are being screened carefully to fill the position of Assistant Superintendent for the Hempstead Public Schools.

With the retirement in February of Margaret Doty, Executive Assistant, James T. Beale, principal of the Franklin-Marshall Schools, was appointed to the district's main office. As Executive Assistant he became business manager for the school system, directing the district's fiscal and business affairs, as they concern purchasing, borrowing and expending monies to operate the system smoothly. Now, as one of the top personalities in whose hands rest the welfare and success of the Hempstead Public Schools, Mr. Beale finds the opportunity to participate in present and future planning for the district both stimulating and challenging.

Farewell to The Class of 1965

IT might be most appropriate for each of you graduates to reflect on your past four years in Hempstead High. For most of you, these have been fruitful, gratifying years—years in which you have studied and worked with fellow students from diverse backgrounds. It is my sincerest hope that during this time you have acquired not only an appreciation for the inherent worth of each person as an individual but also an understanding of the equal rights which each individual is guaranteed. With this realization, you will be able to make a finer contribution to the continued growth and development of the community, state and nation.

In closing, please accept my best wishes for continued success in your future endeavors.

ARTHUR FLAX
Principal

THE inevitable “challenge of the future” cannot be reserved only for convenient, spasmodic, verbal resurrection at special occasions such as graduation. Any attempted reservation is a sorry self-deception existing only in the limited mind of him who conceives it. The future’s challenge is constant and inescapable, and an individual’s association with it is one either of shackles, enmity and frustration or of freedom, empathy and fruition.

The challenge, in reality, is certainly no defiant summons; it is an ever-present and unequalled opportunity to build with greater care and more noble purpose. The future is what one makes it, and the result reflects with startling clarity the dignity, knowledge and wisdom of the maker and delineates with fine precision his character, courage and intention. In expressing congratulations and best wishes to the graduates of 1965, I do so in the knowledge and confidence that they will treat the future not with hesitance and suspicion but with decision and friendship.

TO keep our bustling school in running order, it takes the hard work of the many members of the administration. Mr. Flax, the Principal, heads the operations of the high school. During his unfortunate illness, his duties were assumed by the Assistant Principal, Mr. Pilkington.

Students' present and future plans, whether in business and industry, college, or some other professional school, are discussed and planned with the aid of the Department of Pupil Personnel Services. Its director, Mr. Prahl, heads the Guidance Department, consisting of Mr. Miller, junior-senior college counselor; Mr. Turnbull, vocational counselor for upperclassmen; Miss MacDougall, sophomore counselor and counselor for some college preparatory juniors; and Mr. Tingman, freshman counselor.

Problems involving attendance and discipline are handled by the Dean of Boys, Mr. Keenan, and the Dean of Girls, Miss Brennan. While Mr. Lind directs the activities of the ever-expanding Audio-Visual Department, Mr. Davidson coordinates the activities of the newly established Cooperative Work Experience Program, assisted by Mr. John Mills.

New Faces For '64-'65

ELEVEN new members joined the Hempstead faculty. They contributed to each of our three worlds—academics, arts, athletics. Dr. Fletcher became English Department head. He received his Bachelor's Degree at Providence College and his Master's and Doctorate at Brown University. Mr. Telinski is the new Citizenship Education Department chairman. He received his Bachelor's and Master's Degrees at Syracuse University and is working on his doctorate. In addition, the English department added five other new teachers: Mrs. Moyle, Miss Murphy, Mrs. Rosalia, Mrs. Weissman and Mrs. Klein. To the History Department came Mr. Stromberg. Mr. Bottjer joined the Science Department. To Girls' Physical Education came Mrs. Luckman. Our school this year has opened up the world of arts to incoming freshmen. Mr. Norman Phillips, of the Music Department, offered an experimental cultural enrichment program to them.

One Hundred Sixty Frenzied Fingers

OUR secretaries perform much of the clerical work behind the scenes. They work with diligence and skill required for their demanding labors. Filling out schedules and college forms, keeping personnel records and answering the phone are only a few of their varied tasks. We respect and admire their untiring patience and willingness to help.

Eat, Drink, And Be Merry

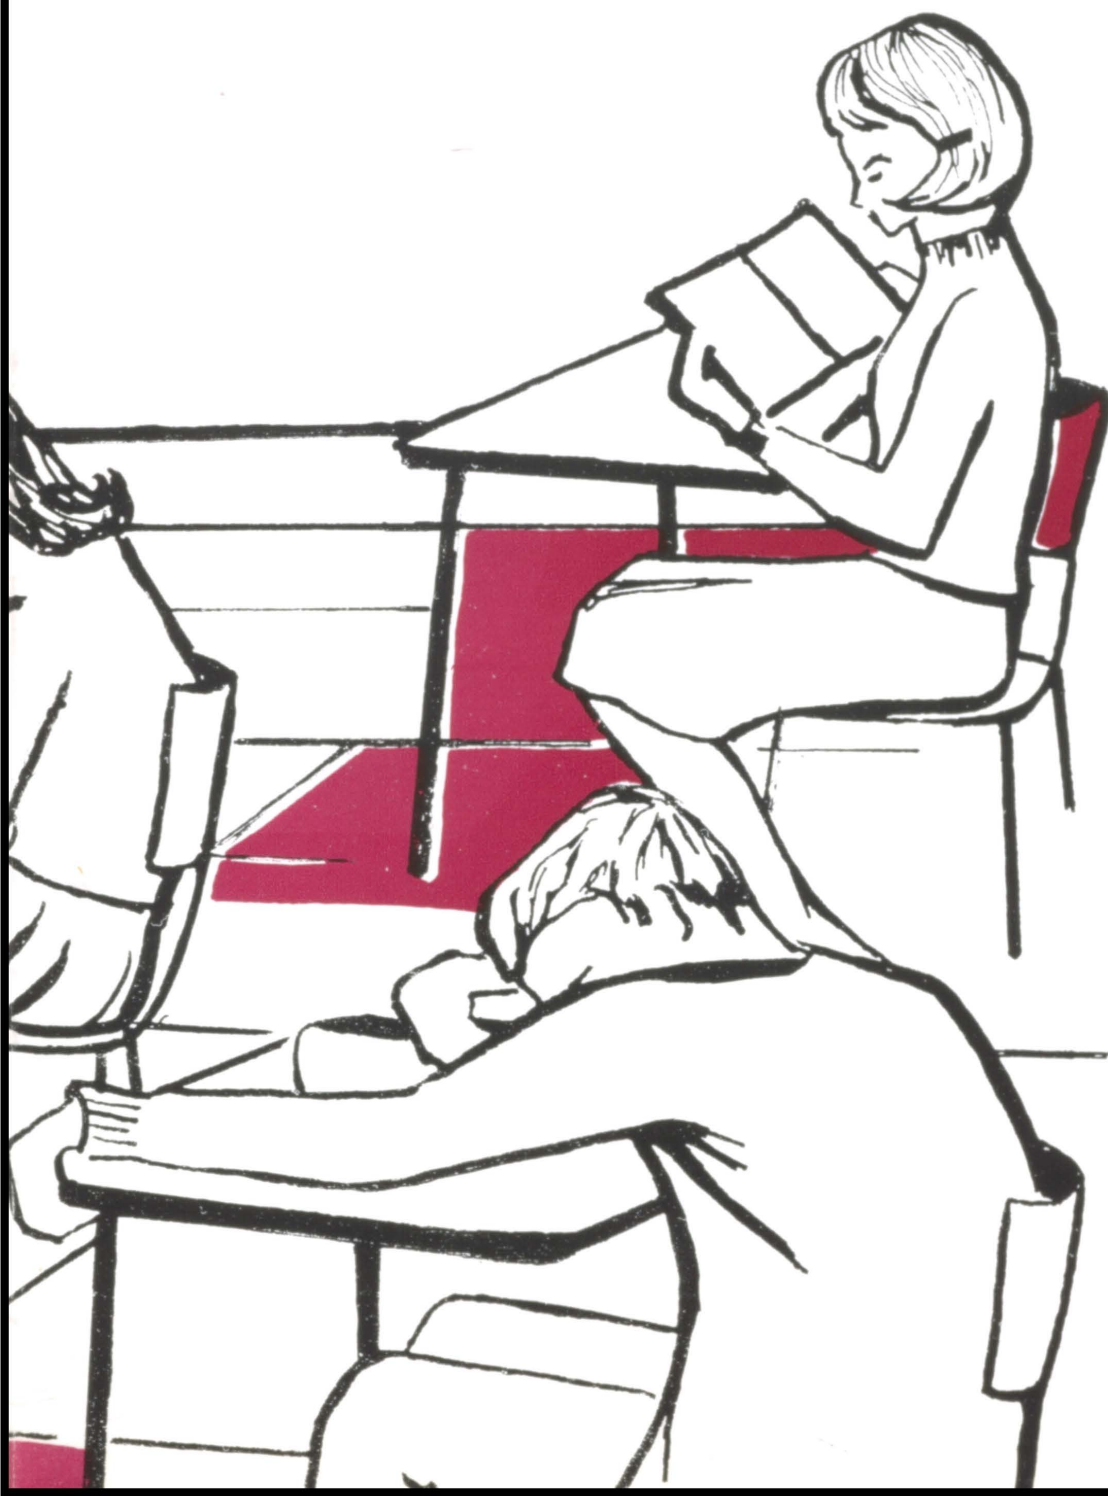

EACH school day, lunch period serves as a welcome respite from the formality of the classrooms. The newly refurbished cafeteria buzzes with life during fifth period, for everyone is releasing the vocal energies built up during the morning.

In addition to the social atmosphere, there are the dietary merits of the cafeteria. The tasty, inexpensive hot lunches are carefully prepared under the supervision of Miss Mead, and they provide a well-balanced diet for those who buy them. For those not desiring a hot meal, a choice of salads, sandwiches and soups is offered the hungry students during their thirty-minute lunch break. We also appreciate the efforts of the staff for maintaining a clean, efficiently run cafeteria.

The Uppah Class

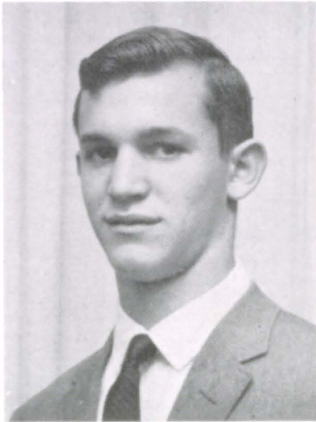

THE Class of 1965 proudly presents itself to a world of business opportunities and higher education. A few years ago, we were floundering, starry-eyed freshmen looking for a nonexistent elevator. Now we are more seasoned citizens having experienced an assassination, a fermenting Africa and Southeast Asia, and an acute civil strife.

We boast scholastically of two Merit Finalists, eight winners of Letters of Commendation and a Phi Beta Kappa award winner. Furthermore, we have a long list of Regents Scholarship winners and alternates.

Most of us have already answered the inevitable question—where now? Those who have benefitted from the co-op program to gain practical experience in the business world now assume their rightful place in it. Others anticipate the challenges of college life.

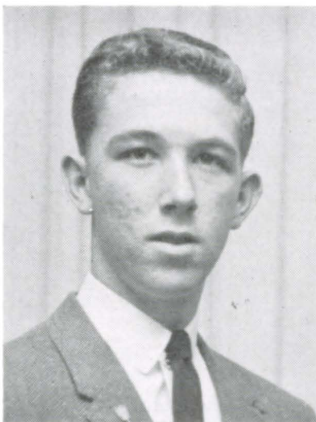

After graduation at the Calderone Theater, we shall most likely never congregate again as a class of friends, foes, or faces. However, one of us might read or hear about Johnny or Jane Hempstead. "Gee, didn't that person sit two chairs behind me in 235?"

Out! Out! Senior Ball

GOVERNING the senior class is the job of the Senior Executive Council. Formerly the American History classes elected the members, but this year the representatives were elected by senior English classes.

The council's special responsibilities included the direction of Senior-Frosh day, Senior Week, Senior Class Night and the most memorable event of all—the Senior Ball. The council deserved much credit for being instrumental in changing the site of the Senior Ball. The results of a senior poll indicated a preference for an out-of-school site. These results met with the approval of the administration, and consequently the ball was held at the Monaco Beach Club in Long Beach this year.

Early in February, ballots were distributed in senior English classes for the purpose of choosing the class motto, flower and colors. "Today we follow; tomorrow we lead" became the motto chosen to reflect the thinking of the class. The white orchid was chosen as the class flower, and burgundy and white were selected as class colors.

The Lower Uppah Clahss

THIS year's Junior Class has been an active and ambitious group.

In the annual magazine sale, the juniors took in a larger amount of cash than any previous junior class. Much credit for the campaign's success went to Mary Hwang, treasurer of the Student Council and the campaign's motivating force.

The Junior Prom, always the social highlight of the junior year, was held in mid-January. It was planned and organized by the class officers. For the prom, the boys' gym was decorated in a medieval motif in accordance with the theme of "Camelot." Musical entertainment was provided by Richard Pear-sall's Septet.

The junior year is an important and challenging one. For the college-bound there are several qualifying group tests and the beginning of detailed college planning. For the non-college-bound, there is a continuation and intensification of their vocational training.

As the year closed, the juniors looked forward to their senior year with eager anticipation.

The Uppah Lower Class

NEVER again will anyone lament, "The sophomore class has absolutely no activity of its own!" This year's spirited class changed all that. The class, aided by its advisors, strove untiringly to make the school's activities more exciting for all.

The year began with the sophomores' holding a money-raising cake sale in October.

Then, in February, they had a class party for the first time—complete with refreshments and the rhythms of Richard Pearsall's Septet. All present agreed it was a real blast. No doubt the precedents these enthusiastic sophomores set and the memory of such a lively year will inspire future "uppah lower classes" to continue similar activities.

The Lower Class

DURING the first few months of the school year, about four hundred students entered the high school as complete strangers. Most of them came from one of the six elementary schools in the village and had a distinct group of friends. Freshmen were ignored, chided and still not accepted. Yet, after a few months, all this disappeared through such activities as Senior-Frosh Day and participation in clubs, sports and other school activities. With the aid of the class advisors, as well as the class officers, the Freshman Class became an integral part of the unified body—a part of the spirit of the school.

Freshman Cultural Enrichment Program

THE innovation of Cultural Enrichment classes in the course of study, offered by Mr. Norman Phillips of the music department, for Hempstead High School freshmen this year has proven a highly interesting experiment.

In addition to exposing students to storied monuments such as the Parthenon, the Cathedral of Notre Dame and the Taj Mahal, the program spotlighted the contributions of Michelangelo, Shakespeare, Tchaikovsky and Picasso to famous repositories of man's finest moments. Some class members took a trip through the Louvre Museum by way of television, while others made an actual visit to New York's Lincoln Center and attended a performance of the Metropolitan Opera. All students had occasion to examine photographs and souvenirs of world cultures both near and far.

As weekly class notes were supplemented with occasional sketches and clippings, relationships became evident with readings in English I and discussions in Economic World. Coincidental? Or, was this part of a diabolical plot to make school work more meaningful?

One wonders how many freshmen would be willing to give up another study hall period for more of the same. Rumor has it that a sophomore elective in Cultural Enrichment may be offered next year.

Mr. Phillips prepares students for Miss Dawson's program.

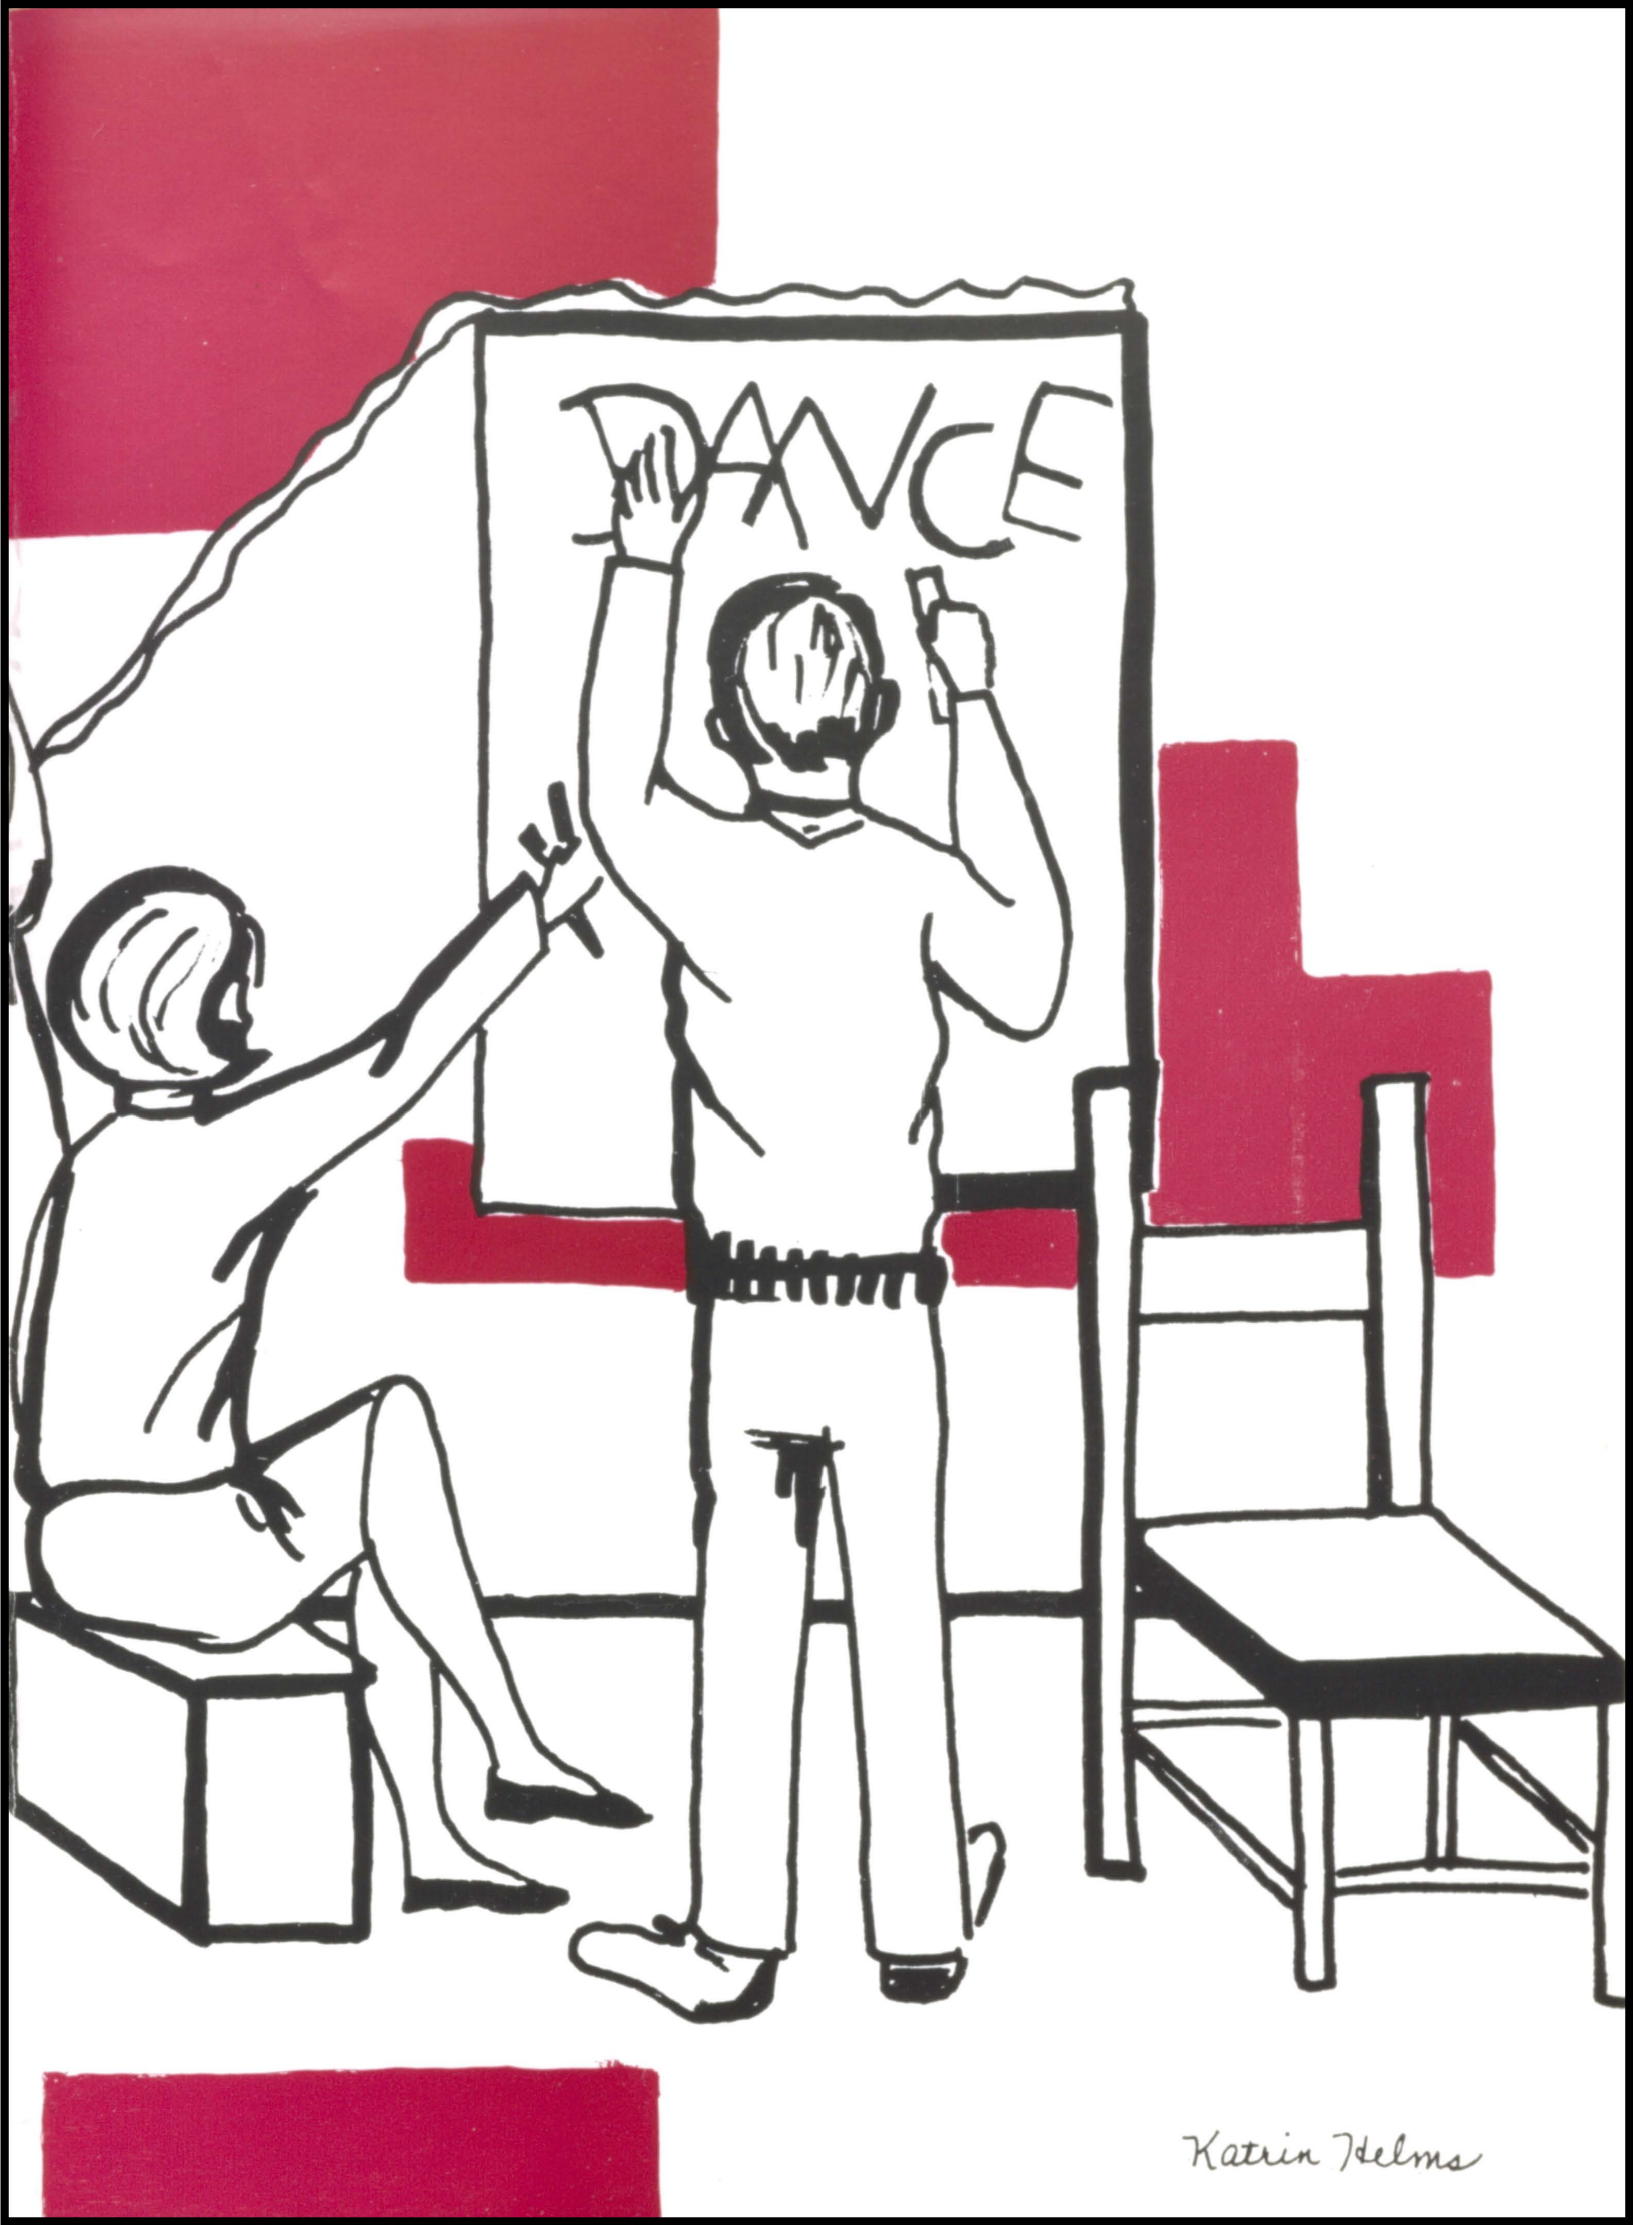

Miss Patricia Dawson lectures classes on her experiences with Operation Crossroads in Africa last summer.

Eighth period class registers enthusiasm for program.

Travels With Charlie

EACH spring we elect officers for the following year who, along with the home-room representatives, conduct the affairs of our Student Council for that year. This year's Council, under the able leadership of President Charles Wehnes, Vice-President Jewel Jones, Recording Secretary Judith Bates, Corresponding Secretary Blease Turner, Treasurer Mary Hwang and its advisors, Mrs. Gottfried and Mr. Holtz, has had a very successful year. The pep rallies which were conducted brought school spirit to a peak. The excellent attendance at games, both at home and away, was evidence of this spirit.

The G.O. Dance and Boys' Broke Ball were both highly successful, but the Council has outdone itself. The representatives feel that it is something unusual at H.H.S. for a boy to ask a girl to a dance, and they are going to remedy the situation with a first—a Girls' Broke Ball being planned for April. There was also the great G.O. Show, produced by Jewel Jones, giving voluntary student talent a chance to perform.

In a more serious vein, we had the privilege of again having an exchange student sponsored by the Herald Tribune Youth Forum. This year's candidate was Julio Pinto from Brazil, who was the guest of Robert Small, a member of this year's graduating class.

The Spirit Of '65

“WE’VE a tiger in our tank!” boast the lively boosters at Hempstead. With Sandra Haynes as president and Mrs. Gottfried and Mr. Holtz as advisors, the many members of the Booster Club pepped up the football games and decorated the halls with gay and informative posters. Some of their numerous responsibilities included selling programs and refreshments at home athletic games, providing jovial mascots and entertaining our foreign exchange student. Whatever the occasion, Booster Club members are found fanning the spark of school spirit.

Next Year

THE intricate web of details which go into publishing a yearbook is rarely appreciated by those who see only the finished product. There are some 20,000 words of copy to write, the myriad candids and group pictures to schedule, the large number of captions to conceive and the fitting of all this and much more into a cohesive whole. The task has demanded long afternoons of layout and planning by the co-editors, Karen Graves and Thomas Doliner, and from their tireless advisors, including Mr. Leusch, senior faculty advisor; Mr. Ayres, advisor to the business staff; and Mr. Chambers, advisor in charge of artwork. The other staff members have also contributed a great deal of time and effort towards the production of this edition. While preparing the book, the staff was shocked to learn of the death in December, 1964, of the yearbook's long-time publisher and friend, Mr. Robert W. Kelly.

The unifying factor in a yearbook is its theme, which sets the mood for what is to follow. This year the theme is the spirit which brings the members of the school, despite the variety of their interests and activities, into a unified body. This spirit, a kind of brotherhood, is symbolized throughout by triplicate hexagonal picture designs—representing the academic, the artistic and the athletic fields of interest and endeavor. It is hoped that in future years, this Colonial will serve as a constant reminder of this unity of spirit, the true essence of a high school experience, which exists at Hempstead.

WHAT reflects school spirit better than a school newspaper? The Patriot staff is a hand-picked group of dedicated students bound together for the purpose of informing and enlightening its readers. Under the dynamic leadership of Keith Conners, editor-in-chief, and David Traub and James McDowell, assistant editors, this year's staff turned out ten lively issues. Keith, Jim and Dave wrote many provocative editorials. Lembi Saarmann, Artley Swift, Martha Taylor and Kathy Graves carried the load of the feature section. Pete Moylan, sports editor, was allotted all the space he needed so that he might vividly portray all the thrilling action of Hempstead High athletic events. Editorial advisor, Mr. Lattimore, and business advisor, Mrs. Kamen, led the staff through a news-filled year.

HEMPSTEAD High's Diogenes Chapter of the National Honor Society forms the nucleus of the academic sphere of high school life. Conscientiously led by President Steven Edelman, Vice-President Judith Strong, Secretary Gerri Wright, and Treasurer Randy Beranek, and counseled by Mrs. Stilger and Mr. N. Williams, the society had a rewarding year.

At an October assembly, a panel consisting of seven members, Andrea Kaplan, Valerie Chatcuff, Keith Connors, John Grimaldi, Katrin Helms and Gavril Pasternak and chaired by Steven Edelman, discussed the question, "Are We the Victims or Beneficiaries of an Affluent Society?" The discussion, taped for rebroadcasting on a local radio station, aroused stimulating discussions in several classes. In early December, about twenty students who exemplified the society's basic tenets—Scholarship, Character, Leadership and Service—were inducted and given their membership pins. Other school activities included the annual March of Dimes collection and a very successful cake sale.

In the way of a field trip, the society planned two: one was a tour of Columbia University in order to better acquaint members with the side of college not found in

As the nucleus of the academic sphere, members must set examples for the rest of the student body to follow. This year's Honor Society proved itself capable of this demanding task.

Students Laureate

WITH a great deal of pride Hempstead High announced the results of the New York State Regents Scholarship Examination. There were ten winners and twenty-five alternates who will be offered scholarships as declined by original winners. Furthermore, 166 students are eligible for the Scholar Incentive Award for receiving at least one hundred points on the exam given in October of the senior year. This year's Senior Class has also received recognition through the Merit Scholarship Examination. Thomas Doliner and Steven Edelman are two Finalists and there were eight winners of Letters of Commendation.

THE Freshman-Sophomore Honor Club is composed of ninth and tenth graders achieving a scholastic average of 90 per cent or better. Organized in February, the club elected the following officers: Michael Bigby, President; Kathy Graves, Vice-President; Petra Helms, Secretary; and Paul Fields, Treasurer.

With the help of Mr. Nelson Williams, advisor to the club, the members planned many interesting programs. Among them was an informative lecture and slide program given by a faculty member, Mr. Norman Phillips, on his South East Asian trip. A field trip to New York City closed the year.

SUPERVISED by Mrs. Young and Mrs. Menza, Le Cercle Français offers an opportunity to learn about French people and customs. The first monthly meeting was devoted to electing John Grimaldi, President; Claudia Menza, Vice-President; Cheryl Formisano, Secretary; Alice Fox, Treasurer; and Gary Williams, Activities Chairman.

This year the French Club sponsored some new activities. First, the club entertained two audiences of nearly five hundred students each by showing two films, "La Symphonie Pastorale" and "Le Bourgeois Gentilhomme." Then in March the members tripped to New York to see Tartuffe presented by the Lincoln Center Repertory Theatre.

According to tradition, the club went through the village singing favorite French Christmas Carols. As usual, the club had a very active and successful year.

EL CIRCULO CASTELLANO is Hempstead's active Spanish Club. Meeting monthly, the club shared in various activities. Jeff Waldner and Amy Albert spoke on their trips to Peru and Mexico respectively. The annual fiesta on the sixth of January consisted of games, refreshments, carol singing and the traditional piñata with a gift for "todos los amigos." On the annual trip to New York the club visited the Hispanic Museum and dined in a Spanish restaurant.

Members from Puerto Rico, Mexico, Cuba, Argentina and Equador added the true Spanish touch by teaching their native dances and songs. Hernando Abdu, our exchange student, spoke about his country, Columbia.

The annual Spanish dinner in the spring consisted of "arroz con pollo." The club, advised by Mrs. Stilger, was headed by President Philippe Mercado, Vice-President Thomas McCormack, Secretary Janet Marayati, and Treasurer Jeffrey Waldner.

The Katzenjammer Kids

THIS year's Deutscher Klub is as active as ever. Monthly, the club's advisor, Miss Gunther, and the officers, President Nancy Moore, Vice-President Katrin Helms, Secretary Petra Helmes and Treasurer Linda Lee, provide an interesting program creating a typical German atmosphere. The programs included slides taken in Germany by the Helms sisters, a film showing German sports, the annual "Buchstabierung" with chocolate hearts as prizes and a skit of the story of the illustrious "Till Eulenspiegel." This year the club plans a dinner at the Plattdeutscher, a German restaurant in Elmont. The club will provide its own musicians and song leader and will sing traditional German songs while dining. The purpose of all meetings is to give practice in using the language and stimulate interest in German customs.

Caesar's Kiddos

AN extremely energetic club of Hempstead High is the Carpe Diem, commonly known as the Latin Club. The officers, First Consul Paul Goonan, Second Consul Dorothy Gnos, Scriba Abby Ossoff and Quaestor William Forbes, preside over the monthly meetings where the members are apt to spoof famous Romans or ancient Roman customs in the form of modern games and skits. Performed in Latin, making this language "come alive," these programs were stimulating and quite humorous. The highlight of the year was a Roman wedding, in which a certain tall, handsome Latin II student was married to the charming scriba in a colorful ceremony complete in every detail even to a truly Maximus Pontifex who tied the knot. The members, assisted by their advisor, Miss Winter, looked forward to these meetings with enthusiasm.

Welcome to Tupiar, the exclusive club of the Math XII students of H.H.S. Through the careful guidance of Mr. "Pop" Hayes, assisted by Steven Greenhouse, President; Victor Batorsky, Vice-President; and John Grimaldi, Secretary-Treasurer, the Tupiar spends the first half of the year in additional preparation for the January Regents in Advanced Algebra. During the second semester the club concentrates on mathematical concepts, such as the slide rule, calculus and set theory, which are not taught in class, in preparation for college work.

Pythagorean Prodigies

THE freshman-sophomore math club comprises avid students interested in increasing their knowledge of mathematics. With Mr. Windt as its able advisor, the math club, headed by President Judy Fener, and Vice-President Linda Lee, learned much about the slide rule. Mathematics, a constantly growing field, offers increasingly more vocational opportunities; and, as any one of the members will tell you, it's fun too.

The Pi-Ar Squares

THE math team, comprised of students whose primary interests lie in the field of X's, Y's and square roots, takes part in interscholastic competition. This year the team was plagued by an undersupply of returning "lettermen," with only Captain Thomas Doliner and Steven Greenhouse returning from last year. Under the competent coaching of Mr. Smith, however, the young members of the team gained valuable experience which will stand them in good stead in their coming high school years.

To Smoke Or Not To Smoke

COMPOSED of junior and senior students with a deep scientific interest, the Future Scientists of America is an organization that enables prospective engineers and scientists to broaden their horizons in chemistry, biology, and physics. This year the former Senior Science Club became affiliated with a nation-wide organization sponsored by the National Science Teachers Association and the National Education Association. The members formed the Isaac Newton Chapter, for which they wrote their own constitution.

The club is advised by Mr. Levin and led by officers Steven Freeman, President; Larry Newman, Vice-President; and John Austin, Secretary-Treasurer. The Future Scientists Association sends scientific news and instructions for projects. In addition, members are stimulated by films, lectures and individual projects. This year the club made innovations and improvements on the astronomical telescope built last year. The highlight and chief activity of this term was the presentation of an assembly entitled "Is Smoking Worth It?" held in February. In preparing for this program, several members performed experiments concerning the effect of nicotine on white mice and the dangers which smoking present to the human body.

THE Junior Science Club, supervised by Mr. Lawson, is composed of freshman and sophomore students interested in exploring scientific fields not covered in the classroom. Its members are also able to work with laboratory equipment to carry out individual long-range projects.

Headed by officers Charles Durant, President; Kenneth Johnson, Vice-President; Randy Pasternak, Secretary; and Kyron Tamar, Treasurer, the club meets regularly every other Tuesday. On alternate Tuesdays members use the lab and work on their projects. Aside from independent research this year's program included several interesting demonstrations by Mr. Lawson. The Junior Science Club is invaluable in preparing these students for more advanced scientific training.

Prospective Pedagogues

THE hunger for school and learning is reflected in the large membership in our Future Teachers of America Clubs. Three groups of interested students are under the energetic counsel of Miss Winter. Each meeting offers an enlivening discussion, invigorating guest speaker, stimulating film or a party.

Our future teachers have both brains and beauty. Dorothy Gnos well exemplified this by being chosen a finalist in the Queen of Hearts Beauty Contest. She was our representative at the Heart Association ball held in the Garden City Hotel. A "pink elephant sale" proved profitable and interesting. To add to our glory, the club members were

From Cave To Fallout Shelter

THIS year's History Club made a somewhat slow start, but through the efforts of Mr. N. Williams and the leadership of President Randy Beranek, Vice-President Wayne Lee, Secretary Mary Fagan and Treasurer Dennis Fuchs, the club anticipated an inspiring year. The History Club was invited to West Hempstead High School in February to hear their guest speaker, the famous Socialist Norman Thomas. Further plans included a trip to a site of historical interest in the Metropolitan area, and possible showings of T.V.'s Twentieth Century series.

The thirty members usually meet on Tuesday of every week. Their President Richlene Cassell, Vice-President Phyllis Davis and Secretary-Treasurer Janet Ross helped in directing the club's activities. Many of their meetings featured guest speakers from business schools on Long Island. The club has already held a tea for all the business teachers in the high school.

Tension! Pressure! Paint!

THE Art Club gives interested art students an opportunity to experiment with a wide range of materials, to learn new technical processes and to acquire a better understanding of art in general. Under the guidance of Mr. Chambers and the officers, President Lesley Mandl, Director of Activities JoEllen Mulvaney and Secretary-Treasurer Lesley Ford, students make displays and posters for the various school activities.

Members of the Art Squad manage to keep the art rooms and office orderly by devoting free periods to doing whatever odd jobs may be necessary. Following any directions of Mr. Kincaid, Mr. Chambers and Mrs. Oman, these busy workers improve the efficiency of the Art Department.

The Collected Works of H.H.S.

MOST students who have an interest in writing have little time to exercise their creativity and have it recognized. The Perspective, our annual literary magazine, affords them that opportunity. Members of all classes submitted poetry, prose, satire and short stories to the staff, directed by Miss Newlon and Editor-In-Chief Claudia Menza. This group of former contributors reviewed each article and tried to select the best and most varied of those submitted for publication. An art staff led by Nancy Moore illustrated the magazine. Most of the work of improving manuscripts was done by the authors themselves. The resulting magazine was, as in previous years, a definite example of student literary achievement.

From Oedipus To Exodus

THE English Club, an innovation in '65, was formed by a group of English enthusiasts for enrichment in English. Under the guidance of President Christopher Coats, Vice-President Kathy Graves, Secretary Petra Helms and the faculty advisor Mrs. Weissman, the English Club meets twice a month in a seminar-like atmosphere to discuss literary works ranging from Greek drama to modern novels. Divergent views expressed give rise to an awareness of the varieties of literary interpretation and help members realize and define their own views. Although the club was formed as an experiment, it is hoped that it will continue in future years as a fine example of genuine student interest complementing class-work.

Ye Newe Curiosity Shoppe

TO the music of a clanging cash register, the student merchants of Hempstead High School provide the student body with everything from a 15c pen to a treasured photograph of Hempstead's gridiron action. Under the watchful eye of Mr. Charles Mills, the faculty manager, the well-stocked Blue and White Corner not only fills our own needs, but acts as an education-through-experience opportunity for those who hope to enter the business world of selling.

Pots, Pans, Dishwater Hands

UNDER Miss Lane's and Mrs. Bowen's leadership, aided by President Tina Rice and Secretary-Treasurer Alice Jemp, girls particularly interested in cooking and sewing pursue their interests in the Future Homemakers of America. The club is affiliated with both county and state organizations. The homemakers have served on panel discussions dealing with home life, visited exhibits and prepared exotic dishes and baked foods. The club annually sponsors drives to raise money for such charitable groups as UNICEF and the Red Cross. At the group's annual dinner the members were given an opportunity to utilize their skills to the fullest.

THE Audio-Visual Squad, one of the most cooperative in recent years, is made up of about forty boys who have qualified themselves to operate all the equipment handled by the department. Without their able assistance the student body would be without many advantages. The boys give up their study halls to make available to the faculty the many teaching aids on files films, tapes and records. Members of the squad also give up their time after school to show movies for various clubs. In addition, they operate the public address system of the school and the sound equipment in the auditorium.

Learning to Earn

FOR students in the Co-operative Work Experience Program, work experience is an important part of their high school training. All the business establishments, such as department stores, retail and variety shops, service establishments and business and professional offices in which the students work, are considered to be extensions of their classrooms and places for enrichment of their school work.

Under the professional guidance of Mr. Davidson, the students work on a part-time basis, in addition to their required course of study. Participating this year are 150 pupils, twice last year's enrollment, who will receive school credit upon fulfilling the requirements of their jobs.

When The Dimes Come Marching In

ONCE again the Hempstead High School Red Cross Council has had a busy and successful year. Membership is made up of elected representatives from every homeroom. This group, advised by both Miss Lane and Mrs. Bowen of the Home Economics Department, chose the following officers for the year: President Kathleen Quinn, Vice-President Jerada Petrano, Secretary Susan Forbes and Treasurer Philip Mercado.

In the fall, the annual enrollment drive took place followed by the Red Feather Drive. The spring project of filling a relief chest to send overseas was supported by a donut sale. The Red Cross Council is indeed a worthwhile organization and readily uses willing and able students.

Thirty-Four Active Pain Relievers

UNDER the leadership of Mrs. Dolley, our school nurse, and officers, President Jeanne Buchanan, Vice-President Lynda Loughran, Secretary Maria Wing and Treasurer Judy Mason, the Health Careers Club consists of students desirous of entering one of the medical professions. Meeting twice monthly, future nurses, social workers, laboratory technicians, and perhaps doctors learn about the medical field.

The club heard a representative from the Cerebral Palsy Association who spoke so interestingly that the club paid a visit to the center in Roosevelt. In October, Dr. Dunson from New York University spoke about the university's nursing program. Then the club gave a Christmas Party for the orphans at the New York Foundling Home. Also, a speaker and student nurse from Mount Sinai Hospital visited the group. The group also sponsored a survey on teen-age smoking habits followed by an assembly showing a film on smoking. It is sincerely hoped that these activities will encourage its members to pursue further study in one of the fields of medicine.

THIS year's Camera Club, under the capable direction of Mr. Smith, aided by President Thomas Davies, Vice-President Steven Freeman, and Treasurer William Winston, has learned a great deal about the art and science of photography. Besides trips to Newsday and the New York Coliseum, where the International Photo Show took place, the Camera Club has held several black-and-white and color print contests. Photography, as far as these boys are concerned, is one of the most enjoyable and rewarding hobbies a person can pursue.

One Band-Aid, Coming Up!

THE Health Service Squad holds an important position in the Health Department of the high school. Members do much toward doing their part in maintaining a smooth operation and in relieving Mrs. Dolley of certain routines. Last year, a medical self-help course was originated and many took part. As a result, this year's squad is even more competent than formerly. Besides having an enjoyable and rewarding activity, members also receive a valuable first-hand introduction to certain aspects of public school nursing.

SUPERVISED by Miss Jones, a select group of girls aids faculty chairmen by performing various secretarial duties thereby providing these girls with a valuable experience.

Every time a student receives a mimeographed sheet or test, he should thank Mrs. Houck and Miss Degenhardt and their staff of volunteer students for providing this service.

Through the efforts of Mrs. Gaffga and her bulletin board staff the student body is kept informed of all meetings quickly and easily. As a result, many of our clubs maintain excellent attendance records.

Get The Message?

ONE of Hempstead High School's most indispensable service organizations is the Office Aides, headed by Miss Brennan and Miss Ronnerman. Among the varied tasks of the student aides are typing, running errands, filing, delivering messages, making and receiving telephone calls and in general, offering any assistance they can to ease the burden of the office staff. These girls are chosen on the basis of their ability and dependability. Knowing how efficiently our offices are managed, one can safely assume that these girls are in part responsible.

THE library is another important department of the school. The librarian, Mrs. Ryder, together with assistants, Miss Herod and Mrs. Young, render valuable service to both faculty and students.

The staff, composed of about ten students who are selected for their genuine interest in library work, is responsible for checking books in and out, returning magazines and books to their proper shelves, handling the attendance sheets and helping the librarians in their clerical work. We are grateful to the combined staffs for maintaining the library as a facility for the entire student body.

A Funny Thing Happened On The Way To Sectionals

ONCE again proving that young people can produce high caliber music when given a chance, Mr. Strickland and his staff of highly qualified men and women have maintained performances of the same high standards as in previous years. Of course, it is not the primary objective to acquire prestige, but rather to give each individual student a foundation in historical background, theory and composition to heighten participants' musical appreciation. The subsequent success of the orchestra is not the result of musical genius, but rather that of repeated rehearsing and practicing on the part of each individual and ensemble groups. Most favorable results were observed in the works performed in the Christmas and Spring Concerts consisting of Vivaldi's Gloria, Overture to the Marriage of Figaro by Mozart, a Haydn symphony and varied other classical and contemporary orchestral works.

We Sing

AN organization which exemplifies qualities of unity and brotherhood is the A Cappella Choir. Here many people with exceedingly different interests meet daily to sing and create beautiful music. Miss Peterson, with a firm hand, directs this unified group of which all members are proud to be a part. Each member is chosen for singing skill, enthusiasm and good behavior. This competition is a reminder that being a choir member is an honor.

Within the choir itself, there are two smaller groups. The Art Choir, chosen on a competitive basis, sings at community functions or at old folks' homes. The Senior Choir, consisting of all choir members who are seniors, performs at graduation.

In this year's Christmas Concert, seasonal works covering various countries and representing different eras were presented. The Gloria by Antonio Vivaldi was sung in Latin with three professional soloists, Donna Jeffery, Ellen Alexander and Mae Crane, accompanied by the school orchestra. The performance was exciting and professional. Friede Auf Erden by Arnold Schönberg was performed at the Spring Concert. Performing a difficult contemporary work in German was both a task and a challenge. It was well received.

Junior Varsity Vocalists

THE purpose of the glee clubs of Hempstead High is twofold: to prepare the students for the A Cappella Choir by teaching them skills and to sing for sheer enjoyment. The Night-In-Gales, for beginning singers, and Die Lorelei, for more advanced ones, are the two groups open to girls. The Note-Dusters is a popular group open to all boys. This spring the groups performed in their annual concert with the band on March 5, 1965. Each glee club sang various numbers concluding with the combined groups and the band in a medley of songs from My Fair Lady.

Mr. Albinski, Conductor

Come Blow Your Horn!

STRIKE up the Band! This is the familiar phrase heard around the Band Box throughout the year. Mr. Albinski, Band Director, makes full use of the talents of 250 students in this year's Band Show. Among the numbers performed were: Lullaby of Broadway, Grand Old Flag and Tonight of West Side Story. The victories of our football team were supplemented by the glorious pageantry of the Hempstead High marching band during half-time.

This year's Band Concert with choruses: Die Lorelei, Note Dusters and the Night-In-Gales, was a giant climax of endless rehearsing for all concerned. Highlights of the concert included a guest appearance of John Norton, guest saxophone soloist and Director of Music for the Jericho School system, who was heard in Ballade and Latinata. The combined choruses sang excerpts from My Fair Lady, accompanied by the band, as the concluding number on the program.

The Hempstead High School Band definitely adds a great deal to the splendor and excitement of athletic and musical life in school, as epitomized in the following quote from Tennyson—"Sweet is every note I hear."

The Spirit Sprites

SCHOOL spirit at football and basketball games this year was commendable. Responsibility for this fell, in part, upon sixteen junior and senior girls, who helped cheer our teams to victory. Coached by Mrs. Luckman, Captain Phyllis Goldberg and Co-captain Mary Fagan molded these girls into an excellent team.

During the football season the girls asked the school for new uniforms but were unfortunately refused—so, they improvised by wearing the Girls' Field Hockey uniforms during the basketball season. Three cheers to these Tigerettes! Their spirit never faded, not even in the pouring rain at the Mephram game or in the freezing rain at the Baldwin game. And when the Tigers were down, the girls cheered still louder.

Are WE ready? Let's go!

Football Team Wins

PROFITING from the excellent direction of Head Coach Mr. Schuessler and his assistant Mr. Gangemi and the true, fierce desire of our players, our team emerged victorious in seven out of eight games, toppling previously unbeaten East Meadow and Lawrence. The season's lone defeat was at the hands of Freeport's mighty Red Devils who capitalized on our few but costly mistakes. Although our mighty gridmen were awarded only third place in the county-wide voting for the Rutger's Cup, they can boast of having defeated East Meadow, this year's Cup winner.

Our opponent's dismay may be attributed to the deep loyalty and pride of the team. Throughout the season the players forfeited individual desires for the benefit of the team.

Did we make it?

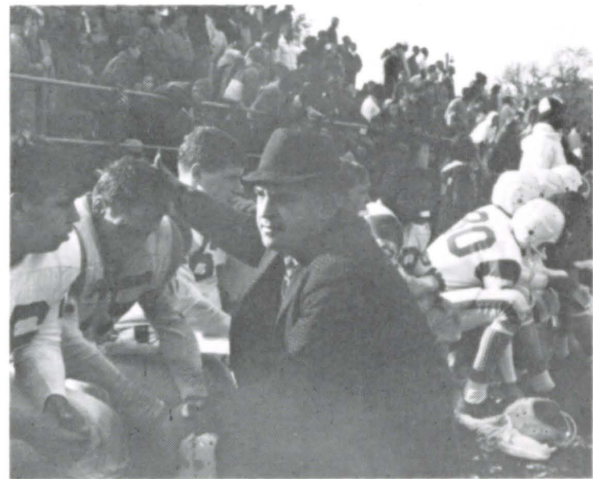

L. to R.—Mr. Gangemi, Coach; W. Champlin, Captain; Mr. Schuessler, Coach.

Lineup

Seven Out Of Eight

To back up captain and guard, Bill Champlin, tackles Jon Buckley and Steve Beck, guard Henry Savarese, ends Richard Bell, Rodger Carey and Terry McKnight, quarterback Steve Yurasits, half-backs Charles Moore and Richard Howard and full-back Bob Schuessler, our team found top-notch support in center Gavril Pasternak, end Frank Sutherland, and tackles Bob Kinsey and Jim Smiley.

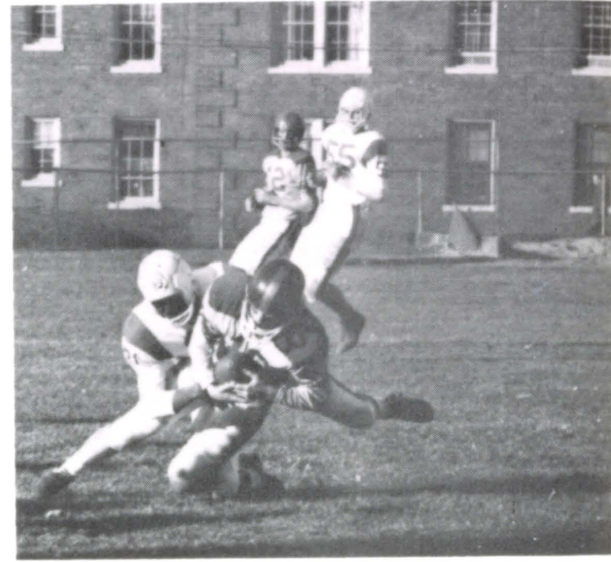

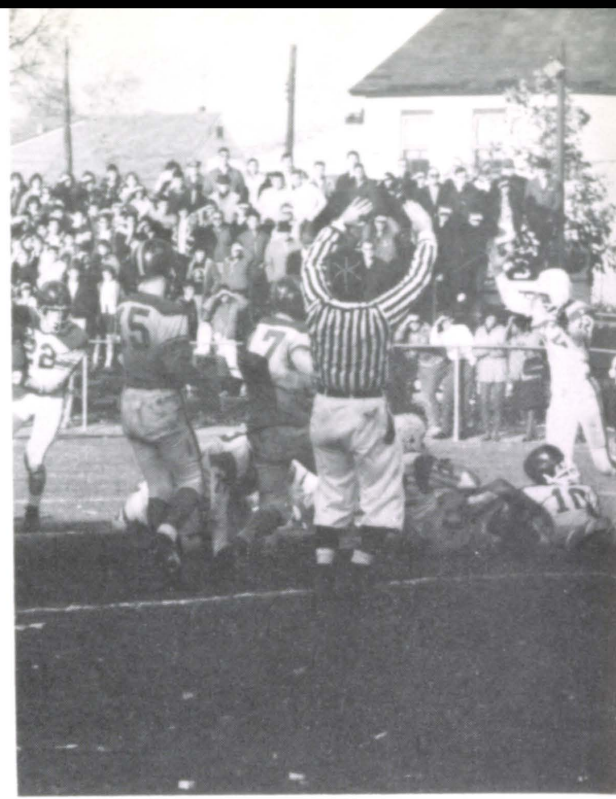

Blood, sweat, and tears.

Safe!

Young Team Reaches Playoffs Eleventh Year In A Row

HEMPSTEAD HIGH'S basketball team bounced into its eleventh straight county playoff this year. During the regular season, the team sported a 15-5 record winning every home contest. Aided by Artie Keriopoulos, Steve Tyler and John Harris throughout the year, with additional help from Hank Fischetti and Fred Ryan in the regular season, our hoopsters captured second place in Section II. After the season, Fred Ryan was voted to the All-Division II team.

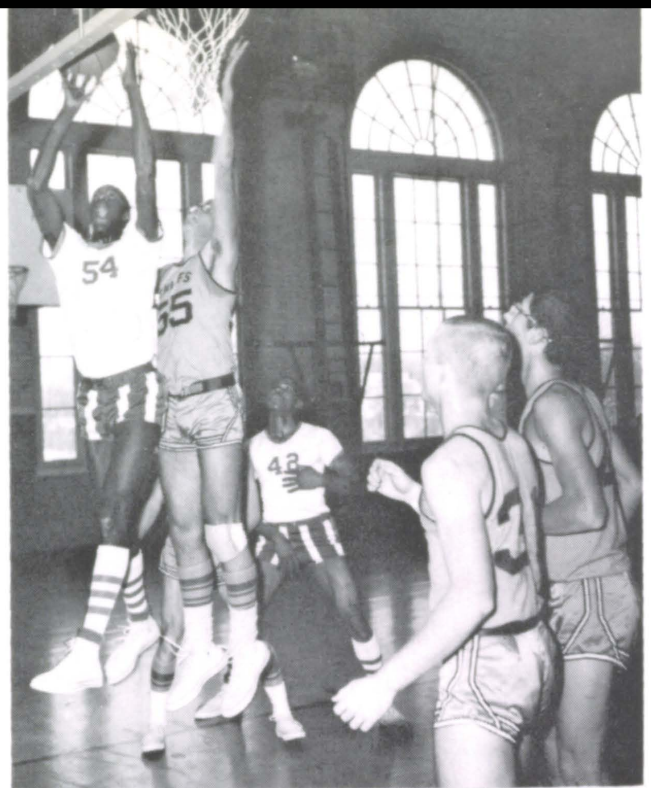

Opening with six straight victories, our team was finally stopped by the giants of Baldwin High. Our second defeat came at Lawrence, but our men quickly bounced back and won their next four games, defeating league-leading Baldwin. Losing to Massapequa by only three points, the boys trounced Lawrence. But in the East Meadow game, the Jets defeated us. This put us in a three-way tie for second place. Then Hempstead found itself in the county playoffs, where we beat Elmont by two points. With only two of the original five players, our team was defeated by Long Beach, whom we had beaten by ten points earlier.

Our success can be attributed to Mr. Mills' and Mr. Gangemi's fine coaching and to their county-famous zone defense. Let's hope that next year's team will go all the way.

KICKING a ball is a favorite pastime with our soccer team. This year our kickers finished with a seven-five record, an excellent showing, considering their high-level competition. Along with fine team spirit and effort, the team, coached by Mr. Just, was bolstered by co-captains Keith Conners and all-county Pietro Marzo and all-South-Shore Haywood Lloyd.

The highlight of the season came when our players upset previously unbeaten Sewanhaka, holder of the county high-scoring record. Our team held Sewanhaka to a defensive game, emerging victorious by three goals. Next season is uncertain with seniors McDowell, Shoemaker, Rosenberg, Newman, Conners, Lloyd and Sciortino graduating. Even with this handicap, those remaining boys will carry on our fine soccer traditions.

THE matmen finished their season with a record of 8-4-1. As usual, Coach Just proved that with a little experience Hempstead could be a grappling power. After only four years in varsity wrestling, our team proved its worth.

Captained by Floyd Davis and Laverne Spry, our men amassed in thirteen matches a total of 365 points, while holding their opponents to a mere 263. In South Shore competition, Laverne Spry (123 lb.; 7-0-2), and seniors Ruford Henderson (141 lb.; 7-0-0) and Jwgo Edwards (168 lb.; 10-2-0) became South Shore Champions, giving Hempstead a total of three champions out of twelve different weight classes. Next year's outlook is equally bright with most starters returning.

Bowling Team Welcomes New Coach

HEMPSTEAD HIGH SCHOOL'S pin-men started their season with a new coach, Mr. Bottjer, and several new members. Although their record as a team was not exceptional, individual averages were, as witnessed by Gary Sjogren (172), captain Arnold Garick (170) and Lee Constantine (170). The bowlers were handicapped by poor timing. Often one team member would roll a 210 game, only to have his team mate squeeze a 150.

With all members returning next year, our bowling team shows promise of a better season. Regardless of their record, these boys' desire, effort and devotion still give Hempsteadites something of which to be proud.

Twenty-Two Years As A Rifle Coach

HEMPSTEAD Rifle Team members can really shoot the bull—bullseye, that is. Coach Voorhies, Assistant Coach Lacombe and Captain Warren Lem led the marksmen through a hard-fought, but rather disappointing season. Although with a 4-8 record, most losses were by less than ten points out of a possible 900. Late in the season, when the senior hats became available, the senior team members began to wear them for good luck.

On the other hand, this year's Rifle Club numbering 40 interested boys and girls continued to improve their marksmanship in hopes of making the team.

Mr. Voorhies, who is retiring this year as rifle coach, was treated to a victory in the last season match and the team, representing in spirit all of Mr. Voorhies' teams, presented him with a gift certificate in appreciation of his coaching and guidance.

The Sticklers

AFTER losing only two games in 1964, the Tigers' 1965 Lacrosse Team looked forward to a very successful season. With only a few starters returning from last year's team, Coaches Mills and Keyes began in mid-February to mold their personnel into a tough, aggressive squad led by Captain Bill Champlin.

This year Mr. Mills and Mr. Keyes in early spring tryouts saw over seventy boys come out for the team, indicating the growing popularity of lacrosse at Hempstead High.

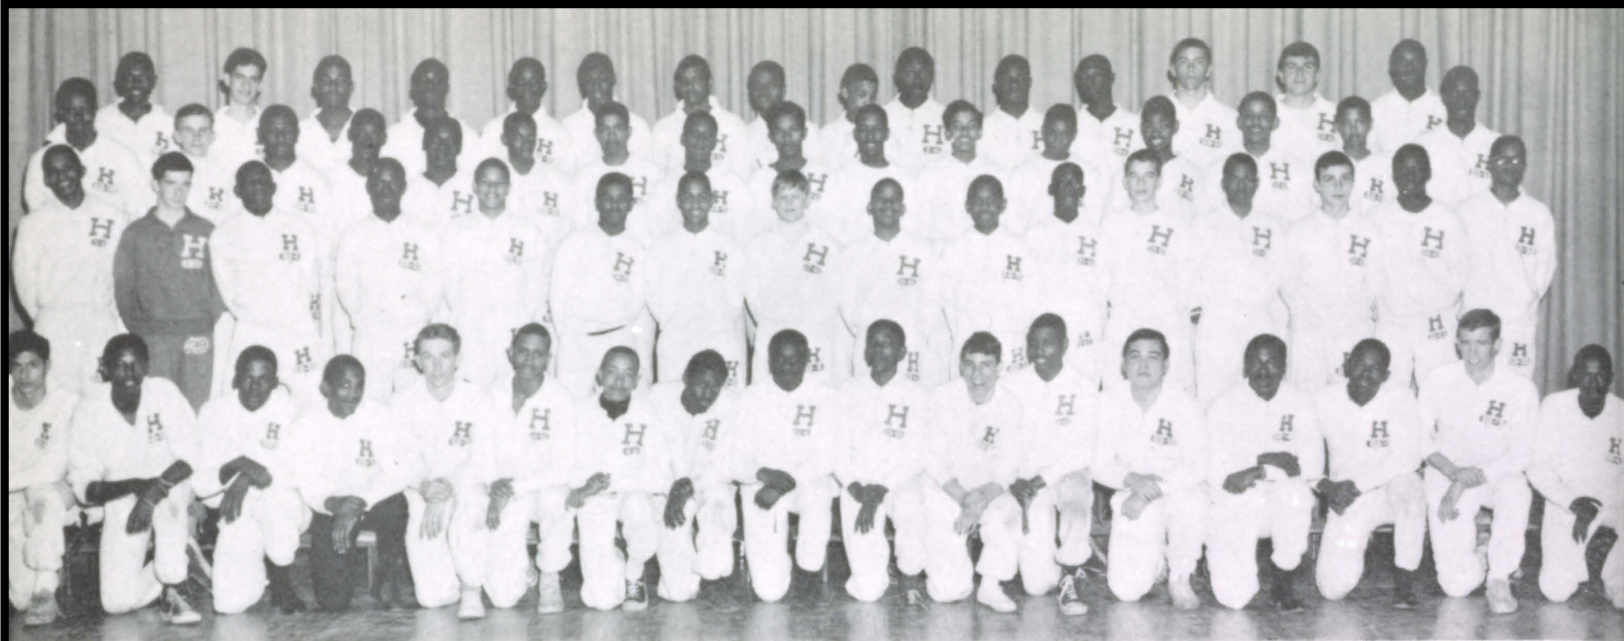

The 1965 club, consisting of a scrapping defense, an agile goalie, a quick attack and a bustling midfield, promised an exciting and winning season.

Hey, where did that ball go?

Trackmen Run Ovals Around Their Opponents

DESPITE losses resulting from graduation last June, our trackmen again look promising. With the energetic guidance of Mr. Knight, John Tripp and Wayne Lee hope to capture most of the shot-put and discus points while "Poochie" Moore adds points earned by his broad-jumping. Running, a paramount aspect of track, will test the abilities of Co-Captains Ben Wolfolk and Keith Conners, and Dickie Howard, "Poochie" Moore, and John Forbes, as well as other able sprinters and long-distance men.

In addition to the regular track schedule, cross-country track was reactivated this past fall. With Mr. Knight as coach, the team huffed and puffed through six regular season meets and the S.S.A.L. meet of two and one half miles each. Although the team won no victories, it has a bright future as there were only three seniors—Steven Edelman, Joel Berryhill and Jerry Edwards—on the team.

With their combination of good sportsmanship plus ability, Hempstead's trackmen can look forward to many victories.

Hempstead Mets At It Again

SYNONYMOUS with the word "spring" is "baseball." Hempstead High sports a baseball team under the experienced coaching of Mr. Martone. Although not very successful in the past, the ball players hope to reverse the earlier trend. Aided by many returning veterans, their hopes are high. Returning after a fine sophomore year is Forest Carey, now a junior and one of the most promising pitchers the team has seen in a long time. Among the returning seniors are Co-Captains Steve Yurasits and John Pollack, backed up by Rodger Carey, Jeff Waldner and Charles Thompson. With continued hard practice and Mr. Martone's fine coaching, our team anticipates a greatly improved record.

The Racquet Squad

WITH the able leadership of seniors Bruce Janvey, Frank Russel, Dennis Fuchs and Tom Doliner, our racqueteers bounced to a few victorious matches despite their run of hard luck.

With only four returning men, our team hoped for the best but often expected the worst. Even with this handicap, the team with its new coach, Mr. Chelius, managed to attain four victories, bettering last year's record. Although the odds weren't good, the boys put their best into every match they played.

SWINGING at a little white ball takes more skill than one might think, but Hempstead High has risen to the occasion with its golf team. Under Coach Nolan, who ably replaced Mr. Faust, the team expects to raise its standing by lowering its scores. With veteran seniors Dennis Fuchs, Bruce Janvey, Dan Wolfe and Andy Ferber providing the experience, the new members can be expected to lend support in achieving the team's goals.

With Emphasis On Sportsmanship

THIS year, under the direction of Mr. Schuessler, the Varsity Club emerged as an integral part of school life after lying dormant for years. Under the student leadership of President Bill Champlin, Secretary-Treasurer Arnold Garick and Sergeant-at-Arms Laverne Spry, this club has definite ideals and purposes to uphold. The four primary goals are: (1) to stimulate athletics; (2) to promote closer bonds among all sports; (3) to emphasize better sportsmanship on and off the field; and (4) to realize closer relationship between athletic field and classroom.

Although all club members have earned letters in some varsity sport, they still find time to provide services for the school in relation to athletic events. During all home athletic events, this club provided the "sports patrol" to keep order, and at the past Christmas Tournament in basketball they provided ushers.

COACHES Keyes and Martone guided the Junior Varsity Football Team through a successful season. Co-captained by Richard Doscher and Dean Rollins, the players showed the drive and desire that earned them their victories and carried them through their few defeats. Their winning habit closely paralleled that of the varsity. With these junior gridmen coming up to the varsity next year, varsity coaches Schuessler and Gangemi will have the material from which to build equally successful varsity teams for the future.

Single Upset Mars Perfect Season

COACH O. Mills' Junior Varsity upheld the fine tradition of basketball in Hempstead High School, amassing a record of 17-1 and making the J.V.'s three-year record 50-2. The team started off slowly, losing to Malverne 58-51. After its next two wins, the only close contests were against Lawrence: 67-64 and 63-61.

Besides establishing an enviable record, our fiery tiger team provided manpower on occasion for the varsity in the persons of freshman Al Williams and sophomore Dennis Burgess. These two boys stepped in and played like veteran hoopsters.

Tiger Cubs

THIS year our Freshman Football Team showed great promise for the future. Under the able direction of Coaches Beck and Brennan, the team emerged victorious in all of its six games. During the season thirty-five energetic players, headed by Co-Captains C. Lombardo and S. Nettles displayed a drive and ability usually observed in more seasoned teams, promising a continued bright future for football at Hempstead High. Through this early training a supply of more experienced players is assured the varsity.

Practice Makes Perfect

AMONG the most highly spirited members in Girls' Physical Education are the participants in girls' sports. The girls enthusiastically engage in after-school activities which include field hockey, volleyball and basketball. Intramural and interscholastic tournaments are provided to display the well-learned skills and put them into practice. Archery, tennis, bowling and gymnastics are those sports which involve more individual performance than teamwork. Learning form as well as good sportsmanship, the girls profit from their extra hours of physical activity. The highly proficient are selected in each sport to represent our school on honor teams in playoffs and Sportsdays. Under the guidance of Miss Burton, aided by a newcomer, Mrs. Luckman, our girls, while enjoying these activities, become better citizens.

Prometheus Unbound

IN the spotlight of the Girls' Physical Education Department is the traditional Greek Games. Dedicated this year to Prometheus, the God of Fire and Creation, our thirtieth-year performance includes all the horses, hurdlers, discus throwers, hoop rollers and torch racers in their usual splendor. There was a dance depicting Prometheus' creation of man and the story of Pandora's box. Spartans were led by priestess Kathy Kiesling and Athenians were led by priestess Fern Volkman. After the much strenuous training, the girls became as skilled in the different activities as the original Athenians and Spartans. The chairman of the activities was Mary Fagan who was so helpfully assisted by Yvonne Willet, her co-chairman. Our program, direct from scenic, ancient Greece, took place on April 1, 2, and 3. With the Athenians and Spartans competing in the various events and vying for the most honorable wreaths, our games again provided excitement and delight.

Julio Pinto— Exchange Student

THIS year Hempstead High School was once again fortunate in becoming a host to a foreign exchange student. Sponsored by the Student Council in cooperation with the Herald Tribune Youth Forum, Julio Cesar Macchado Pinto from Belo Horizonte, Brazil, spent three weeks studying and experiencing Hempstead High life. American homelife was provided by Mr. and Mrs. Small, whose son Robert is a present senior, with whom Julio stayed.

Julio's goal in life is to become a diplomat, and as he explained, this is very difficult because the competition is extremely keen. He plans to launch this career by enrolling in the university located in Belo Horizonte. Besides this ambition, he is also talented in music.

The student council conducted an assembly which featured a panel discussion with Julio as guest panelist. The topic discussed concerned a comparison of his South American life with life in the United States.

After leaving Hempstead, Julio continued his American tour in Burlington, New Jersey and Boston, Massachusetts. He also had the opportunity to spend a week in Washington, D.C. to sight-see. The student body hopes that our benefits from his presence with us, though short, are at least equal to those benefits that he may have derived from being here.

Selecting a profession or business in which you will devote your life earning a living for yourself, and contributing something in addition to your fellowman, can be a very perplexing problem for students. The management of this bank recommends that you seriously consider the banking business as a vocation that can be challenging, rewarding and satisfying.

Duke's Laws Convention Commemoration

FEBRUARY 28, 1965, marked the 300th anniversary of the Duke's Laws Convention, the first representative assembly held in what is now New York State. The Duke's Laws Convention, which met in Hempstead, was attended by thirty-four delegates from surrounding towns. Its purpose was to adopt a code of laws presented by Governor Nicholls and ordered by the Duke of York.

Trustee Dalton R. Miller was the chairman of the 300th Anniversary Committee. Starting with an assembly at Cooper Field, his plans provided for a parade and motorcade from Cooper Field to the high school auditorium consisting of the Hempstead High School band, veteran units, Sons of the Legion, Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, and the fire department. There, following the introduction of dignitaries and honored guests, a pageant depicting the original Duke's Laws Convention was presented. The pageant was researched, written, and directed by Stephen Telinski, Hempstead High History Department chairman. The cast, dressed in appropriate, 17th century costumes, included thirty-four students and the following faculty members: Miss Abbott, Mr. Schuessler, Mr. Fish, Mr. Zara, and Mr. Pilkington. The pageant and other festivities of the day left many people reflecting about the influence which that convention in 1665 had upon following generations.
