Dedication

A friendly smile, a calm air, and a mild sense of humor are some of the qualities attributed to you, Miss Ford. You possess also the quality of humility. We seldom see your Phi Beta Kappa key. Throughout your many years at Hempstead High you have inspired your students and have instilled in them your enthusiasm for learning.

Because of your patient, understanding efforts to help us and the classes that have gone on before us, and your quiet insistence on true scholarship, we, the Colonial Staff of 1960, dedicate this book to you—Miss Bernice Ford.

Foreword

The Circus is a world of adventure, fun, and excitement. But to the performers, it is also their life and their work. So it is with school. The older generations look back upon their school days, recalling happy memories of some of the best times of their lives. To the students, school is a place to learn, a part of the daily ritual of their lives.

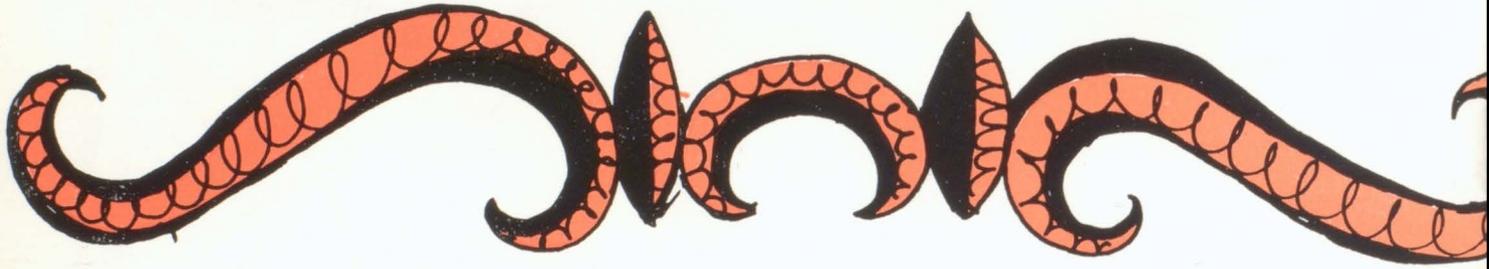

We, the Colonial staff of 1960, now present this yearbook, with a circus theme, in order that the students of Hempstead may appreciate that school is not all work and no play. There is fun and adventure to be had in learning. A New World will open to you as you continue thru school just as a circus finds new worlds throughout its tours.

BOARD OF EDUCATION

Booth, Secretary; Emil J. Bejsovec, Treasurer; C. H. Tunncliffe Jones, School Attorney; Dr. W. A. Kincaid, Superintendent of Schools.

Board of Directors

NOT very many of us realize the important duties performed by the Board of Education. It is this Board that is the governing body of the schools in our district. The Board is also responsible for the adult education courses offered here in Hempstead.

The Board of Education's main duty is to make decisions and solve the problems concerning the schools as they arise. The Board takes care of all important matters that have to do with education. The members are concerned with the school budget, the purchase of school land, erection and maintenance of buildings, and the complete policy making of the school district.

Together with Dr. W. Amos Kincaid, Superintendent of Schools, and Margaret E. Doty, District Clerk, the Board meets once a month. The five members who make up the Board are elected by the taxpayers from our school district for a term of five years. A new member is chosen each year for this term.

Our thanks to the Board of Education for the fine work it has done for our school, our school district, and the education of our students.

The Big Top Director

FOR many people thirteen is an unlucky number. However, for those of us in Hempstead it is an extremely lucky one, since Dr. Kincaid has now been our Superintendent of Schools for thirteen years.

Many of us think of Dr. Kincaid as the man who closes school when it snows. However, Dr. Kincaid has done much more for Hempstead students than merely closing its doors for a day. For example, our excellent Guidance Department got its start because of Dr. Kincaid. The Athletic Department also owes him a debt of gratitude for being instrumental in the building of the bleachers out on the field and for the enlargement of the girls' field. Hempstead's now famous Music Department was revitalized by Dr. Kincaid. Indeed we can point to many benefits that the Hempstead Public Schools have derived from Dr. Kincaid, our Superintendent of Schools.

Our Ring Master

WHENEVER there's a warm day with clear skies, it's never an unusual sight to see Dr. Sheldon out front greeting his new students as they enter school. Dr. Sheldon, as you all should know by now, is Mr. Beddow's successor as principal of our school, and greeting the students this way is only one example of the many ways in which he gains the friendship and confidence of Hempstead High students.

Dr. Sheldon's educational background has been exceptionally varied. After graduating from Minoa High, he entered Syracuse University majoring in sciences. Shortly after graduating from Syracuse, he started teaching science and physical education at Split Rock High School and he also coached the school's basketball and soccer teams. Dr. Sheldon then signed up with the U. S. Army. During his two years of service he served as an electronics technician and supervised radio-teletype training. Afterwards he returned to teaching science and driver education at his Alma Mater, Minoa High. After school he coached their football, baseball, and basketball teams.

With little time left for himself, Dr. Sheldon always managed to participate in community clubs and organizations. Included in his long list are: President of the Onondaga County League, Director of Health, Physical Education and Recreation in Minoa, and an active member of Hempstead's Lion Club.

Dr. Sheldon worked very hard before being elected Vice-Principal and Director of Adult Education at Minoa High. In 1953 he became the Principal of Minoa's Junior and Senior High School and held that position up to the time he was appointed the new principal of Hempstead High.

For the short time he has been here, Dr. Sheldon has done much for the improvement of our school. As far as his likes and dislikes are concerned, Dr. Sheldon likes all kinds of sports, a clean, well-run school, and walking to and from school. Among his dislikes are poor sportsmanship and disorderly conduct in classes and halls.

We all welcome Dr. Sheldon as our new principal and hope that the future will bring many more successful years for him at Hempstead High School.

Assistants to the Ringmaster

Arthur Flax
Assistant to the Principal

AMONG the most important persons at Hempstead High are the Administrative Assistants, Mr. Flax, Mr. Keenan, Mr. Prah, and Mr. Moore.

Mr. Flax and Mr. Keenan carry on in Office Two their many duties, which include checking boys' attendance and discipline, extra-curricular activities, athletic funds, and the scheduling of all school activities.

Found in Office Five is Mr. Prah. Mr. Prah is in charge of the guidance program in our high school. Under his direction, the counselors work individually with the students in order to help each student to make his high school education and experience as valuable as possible.

Mr. Moore is the fourth Administrative Assistant. He is Curriculum Coordinator and Director of Audio-Visual Education. Mr. Moore supervises all the audio-visual equipment used in District One. Among his many chores are planning a budget, working with committees, delivering supplies to teachers and training students to operate audio-visual equipment.

Our sincerest appreciation goes to the Administrative Assistants for the fine work they have done for the betterment of our school.

HAVE you ever stopped to think about your teachers and realize how many problems they must face each school day during the forty week period of every school year? While you are busy occupying your after-school hours participating in various school activities or doing your assigned homework, most teachers generally have a stack of homework or test papers to take home and correct for hours at a time. Every teacher takes a keen interest in each of his or her students and sees to each student's need for knowledge.

Besides the many tasks that teachers must perform during school hours, most all teachers of H. H. S. also take it upon themselves to sponsor an extra-curricular club or coach an athletic team after school has been dismissed. We are fortunate to have many active clubs and organizations in H. H. S. for which most of the credit should be extended to the many teachers who sacrifice their time to assist in promoting more interest in extra-curricular activities for the benefit of the students.

During summer recess, some teachers even sign up for extra courses to provide you, the student, with a more vast and vivid portrait of new educational ideas that may someday prove helpful to you when you take your place in the world.

that are included in our school system is the guidance department. This department contains four individual guidance counselors and their secretaries, who assist each student in planning his or her high school program during the four years of high school and assist in selecting a higher place of learning for academic students. They are ready and willing to help the student at any time he is in need of assistance.

For the benefit of all students, the guidance department maintains a large amount of research material on various colleges and universities throughout the country to which the student may refer. Also, this department has a special staff that serves to help students obtain part or full-time employment appropriate to their training in a specific field.

English department, under the chairmanship of Miss Barth, does much to establish a more basic view of the English language and literature. To promote this understanding of our language, students were given tickets in their English classes for a Shakespearean play presented by Hofstra College in March. An excursion trip to Connecticut in May to see the Shakespearean Festival also proved beneficial to both students and English teachers who attended.

under the direction of Mrs. Vincent. Learning the many facts about our past civilization and the development of our present way of living, has long been an interesting and important factor of our school life. If it were not for the past we would not have the present, so we must allow ourselves to have more time to do research in both history and geography, for without them, we would be lost. In establishing a history club this year, we have succeeded in reaching this goal. We need a more clear understanding of life and its development and here in our history classroom is where we shall achieve this goal.

The math department, under the supervision of Mr. Hayes, has been working steadily to develop better and higher math courses for those who show interest and ability in this field. With the growing need for more mathematicians in the scientific and teaching fields, this department has supported two math clubs, the Junior Math Club for freshmen and sophomores and Tupiar Club for juniors and seniors, to lure interested and able followers.

The science department is headed by Mr. Faust. In the past few years since the first satellite was put into space, there has been considerable pressure for more advanced courses to be offered to the interested and skilled student. The need for more young scientists in this Atomic Age has prompted our science department to encourage more science students. Today, with the help of the science teachers, each science student is able to leave H. H. S. with a firm background in this field.

Mrs. Young, as head of the language department, has been able to establish, with the help of the other language teachers, an interest in the culture and customs of other people in other lands. With the establishment of four individual language clubs, the members receive a wider knowledge of the customs of the people whose language they study than they could receive in the classroom. This has helped the language teacher to put across to the student a better understanding of the language he is studying.

The music department, under the direction of Miss Boyle, and the art department, under the direction of Mr. Pilkington, have done much to promote the arts as well as the sciences this year. manship and co-operation among the students. The efficiency of our physical education instructors has kept the high standards set by our school system and serves to preserve those standards.

These departments and the many other special departments that have been established for the advancement of our student body tend to show that the teachers and staff are working along everyday to provide both knowledge and enjoyment for the student. The medical department has Dr. Combes and Miss Best to check up on the physical health of the student, while Dr. Walter handles the mental problems of certain individual students in order to help them solve their problems. The fine work of these many qualified and skillful teachers and members of the staff makes our school system one of the best in the country.

work in the various offices of our school, is the secretaries. These persons are the backbone of our office staff. They use their secretarial skill to aid the school by keeping the records straight and by performing clerical work for the teachers. They also arrange interviews for students with their guidance counselor and appointments with representatives from colleges and universities. We of the H. H. Senior Performers

A GAIN this year Hempstead High School has produced a senior class composed of many capable students of whom it can be justly proud. To the senior class advisors; Mr. Lawson, Mr. Levin, and Mrs. Dendy, goes much credit for this worthy accomplishment. Their competent and helpful leadership deserves many thanks from all who benefitted from it. The job of making the senior year especially outstanding also belonged to the four class officers.

Seniors enjoy many activities and privileges not extended to the lower classmen. The tradition of Senior-Frosh Day, on which the senior girls dress as mommies and freshmen girls dress as babies, was carried on again this year. On the designated day, lollipops and stuffed animals were seen everywhere. The Senior Ball held in January was enjoyed by all who attended. In May, the annual spring concert, at which the band, orchestra, choir and glee clubs performed was dedicated to the seniors. Senior Week was held as usual in June. This week was devoted solely to seniors. The activities indulged in included: Old-Clothes Day, Dress-Up Day, a senior tea, and an afternoon dance. This is all in keeping with the tradition started years ago, to give the seniors one week of their own. Naturally, everyone enjoyed himself immensely.

In addition to these special activities, the seniors participated in all the other activities that our school offers. Everywhere one looked one could find seniors—seniors in the music department, seniors serving as gym aids, seniors in the science and math clubs—seniors everywhere! Being the elders, and more experienced, they were often called upon for leadership.

To a senior, however, life was not all clubs and proms, and Old Clothes Day. Ask any senior and he will tell you this. A tremendous amount of study and homework was required. The pace was fast, and unfortunately it was not always easy for a student to find time to do everything and to do it all to the best of his ability. The skills and knowledge gathered during school will be used by each member of the graduating class, no matter what work he will be doing in the future; whether he continues his schooling or whether he will enter the business world immediately after graduation. Not all learning came from books. During the past four years the seniors have learned these things that will help them succeed in their future life.

The seniors owe much gratitude and thanks to the teachers, especially. It was the teachers who had the most influence over them the past four years of their lives. Even though at class night the seniors poke fun at the teachers and their idiosyncrasies, they really respect them for what they are and what they do. After all, what would a school be without its teachers? Everyone here at Hempstead High is indeed fortunate in having the qualified faculty that we have.

This year's senior class chose as its flower, the carnation, as its colors, baby-blue and white, and as its motto, "Strive for the best for the future still lies before you."

Hempstead High School enjoys a fine reputation as a school, based on the actions of the past graduating classes. This year's senior class can hold its head high among its predecessors. Everyone hopes that the seniors have had many wonderful experiences here and there, as they go on to the future, that they won't forget the past. Hempstead High wishes the seniors good luck and best wishes for the future.

Top Talent Council

ONE of the most active organizations of Hempstead High is the Senior Executive Council. As in the past, this group of seniors does a great deal of work to solve the many problems of their fellow students in the best way they know. The council also holds the responsibility of proposing a schedule of activities for the entire year.

Every senior impatiently looks forward to Senior Week. The members of the Senior Executive Council do all the planning for this week so that it will be one long remembered by the graduates. The Council makes the decisions for the color, flower, and motto of the year.

A representative for the Council was elected in every American history class. During home room, they all met in the same room in order to discuss matters that in any way concerned the organization of the Senior Class. By having a representative in every history class, the Council was able to give all seniors an accurate account of the decisions made by the Council. The Senior Class officers, who preside over the Council, work hard in order to make their class the best one the school has ever known.

The Council always does a great deal of the planning for the Senior Ball. This year's theme was the "Imperial Ball" which turned out to be a great success and which proved that the Council's hard work did pay. With Mr. Levin as their advisor, there's no wonder why the Council was such a great success.

THE theme of the Imperial Ball, this year's Senior Ball, was based on the Russian and French courts of the eighteenth century. The ceiling and walls were decorated with fleurs de lis and magnificent crests of gold, red, and silver. Music was supplied by the "Suburbans" from a beautifully decorated bandstand. All of this wouldn't have been possible if it hadn't been for Jennifer Joyce and the many other contributory members.

Weeks were spent in the planning and preparation of this memorable occasion. Under the guidance of the Senior Class Advisors, Mrs. Dendy and Mr. Levin, the ambitious committees transformed the boys' gym into an aristocratic court in which Louis XVI could have entertained.

The evening of Friday, January 23, began with a welcoming speech by Tony Tsighis. The dance was held from 8 p.m. to midnight, the climax of the evening being traditional coronation of the king, Manny Schwartz, and the queen, Fran Negler.

This occasion will always be remembered by all who attended.

Junior Performers

AS the graduates of 1961, the Junior Class feels that the knowledge and experience gained during these past three years at Hempstead High will be a great help to them in preparing for the great and final step they will take, when next year they will emerge to the top post, taking full responsibility as the leaders of this high school.

This year, following the procedure of their predecessors, the Junior Class elected four of their fellow classmates as class officers for the year. Tom Pugliese was elected President; Barbara Kennedy, Vice-President; Dale Steckler, Secretary; and Vicki Yurasits, Treasurer. At the beginning of the school year, a class representative and an alternate were elected in each of the Junior English classes. These "Reps" then met to nominate candidates for each office. Voting took place in each English class and the results led to the election of our present officers.

With the capable assistance of the class advisors, Miss Abbott, Miss Dorwin, and Mr. Zara, the Juniors have enjoyed a wonderful year. Their advisors helped them prepare for the big night that all Juniors look forward to, the annual Junior Prom. Committees were chosen and with everything going as planned, it turned out to be the greatest Prom ever. The Junior year is also the time for purchasing the Hempstead High Class ring. This ring, available in many styles and imprinted with their date of graduation, will years from now bring back memories

WITH half of their high school career already a thing of the past, the sophomores this year have much to look forward to next year. For one thing they will no longer be considered as lower classmen. Entering into the "upper class" isn't as easy as it seems. It requires careful preparation and understanding of what will be expected of them in order to earn the title of upper classmen. Such a preparation and understanding is acquired after an interview with Miss MacDougall.

The sophomores selected their representatives from their English classes by the means of nominating several candidates and limiting their final decision to the student best suited for the position of their class representative. At specified times throughout the year these representatives met to accomplish various tasks. One of these tasks was selecting the class officers of the year.

Another task of the sophomore representatives was planning the annual sophomore party held in May. All of the students had a good time playing games, singing, and enjoying the refreshments that were served by members of their class. The dues the sophomores paid during the beginning of the year were used to pay for the sophomore party and for other expenses incurred during the year.

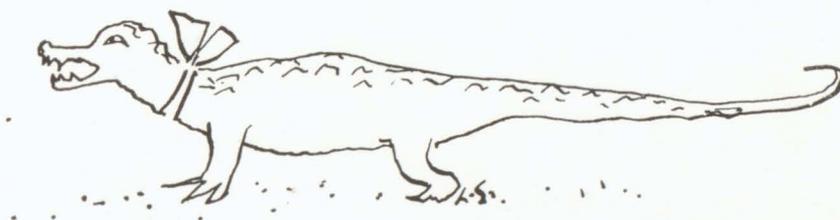

As the number of sophomores becomes greater, the need for good advisors also grows. The sophomores have been very fortunate in having Miss Igelzi and Mr. Wickham to assist them with any of their problems.

IN the beginning of the year a great number of worried ex-eighth graders entered Hempstead High School as freshmen. Sophomores, juniors, and seniors were often stopped to give directions. Sometimes these troubled freshmen were told to take the elevator to the fourth floor or the escalator by the swimming pool. However, if they happened to run into a sympathetic upper classman, they received the correct information. Fortunately for everyone concerned, the freshman class finally figured out where it was going.

The first big day for the Freshman Class was Hempstead High's traditional Senior-Frosh Day. On Senior-Frosh Day the senior girls dressed up as mothers while the freshmen girls wore little

During the day the freshman "babies" gave lollipops to the senior "mothers." At the end of the day the entire school turned a sickly shade of green at the mere mention of the word "lollipop." However, at the end of the school day the fun was just beginning for the senior and freshmen girls. After school they all had a party in the boys' gym. As a part of the party some prizes for the cutest costume, the most typical freshman, and many other categories were awarded.

During the year each freshman received a

Many freshmen were probably surprised, but glad, that their parents were present during this interview. At this meeting Mr. Prah, the student, and his parents chose the courses for his next three years at Hempstead High.

All of us at one time or another were freshmen. Let us all hope that this year's Freshmen Class, like those who have gone before them, will go on to even higher achievements.

The Governing Assembly

SCHOOL wouldn't be much fun if we didn't have a strong governing body to bring forth the opinions and ideas of our students. This year's Student Council, led by very capable officers, always managed to fulfill the wishes of our students by mixing work and play with an occasional dance, rally or show, to break up the monotony of teaching and learning.

Each homeroom had a senator and an alternate who would attend council meetings and present the facts of these meetings to his homeroom. It is the senators' duty to discuss any problems they think is of importance to the council.

As in the past, the council sponsored our two annual pep rallies, the G. O. show, and our annual Boys' Broke Ball. Instead of following the same pattern, this year they added several new activities to its usual list, such as the pep rally during school, the G. O. Show at night, the Sock Hop, and the Faculty-Student Basketball Game!

The council's members always wait impatiently for the arrival of our two foreign exchange students. This year they had the great pleasure of entertaining Ismail bin Ibrahim of Malaya, and Peter Krohn of West Germany. Their hosts, Hank Drewal and Ben Taylor, made sure that their time here was well spent. Before leaving, the foreign students participated in a panel discussion which presented to our students the many contrasts between our way of living and theirs.

Every year during April, G. O. keys are presented to ten seniors, five boys and five girls, who have shown outstanding spirit towards their school and its activities. The G. O. keys, offered by the Student Council, are a means of thanking the students for all their help and cooperation.

Much thanks must be given too, to Miss Newlon and Mr. Beckett as advisors of the council. Because of their strong guidance, this year's Student Council was very successful in all that it accomplished.

THIS is your 1960 Colonial. The combined staffs have all worked together to make it a publication worthy of Hempstead High. We all hope that if you happen to read again of these school curriculars years from now, it will bring back pleasant memories of H. H. S.

This year's Editor-in-Chief was Carl Lawrence. His job was to superintend the work of the editorial staff. Assisting him was Joan Lambert, Associate Editor. Joan's main job was to see that all copy, captions, and other printed material were corrected and sent off to the publisher on time. Brenda Broaddus was the Photography

Editor whose job, as you might guess, was the scheduling and choosing of the pictures of the different activities. The Copy Editor, Deborah Thomas, assigned, collected, and corrected all stories appearing in the Colonial. Gordon Bartels was the Feature Editor, who, besides thinking up subjects for the feature section, also was in charge of all the extra and feature pictures in the book. The Senior Editor was Pat Vanacore, who took care of all senior pictures and captions. These editors, along with the editorial staff members could be found diligently working during homerooms and afternoons in room 23 under the direction of Mr. Ayres and Miss Linn, who corrected all copy in duplicate and triplicate.

Up in the art room the members of the Colonial art staff created the sketches that enliven these pages. The cover and colors of the book were also chosen by the staff. Under the guidance of Mr. Pilkington and the Art Editor, Francis Negler, the staff carried through the circus theme echoed throughout this book.

The business staff under Mr. Helbach had before them the task of financing the yearbook. To do this the staff members canvassed Hempstead stores for ads. Also under the supervision of the Business Editor, Marie Cascone, the staff took the orders during March for the coming Colonial.

During the earlier part of the year the editors took a trip to Columbia for the National Yearbook Conference. There they attended lectures on how to improve the quality of their yearbook.

All of the combined staffs have put their time and effort into making the 1960 Colonial the best ever. We all hope that you will fully enjoy it now and in the years to come.

If you happen to pass room 49 Thursday after school, you may see a group of students working diligently. These are The Patriot staff members and Thursday is "Dummy" night.

The Patriot, as every student knows, is our school newspaper. On the first page all the latest news, such as the newly elected class officers, this year's band show or the Student Council's latest Pep Rally, can be found. Page two contains, "The Editors Desk," "Letters to the Editor," and the "Introducing" column. The latter presents to its readers an outstanding senior boy and girl and a teacher. On the third page is the "Exchange" column and the "Inquiring Reporter." As any boy can probably tell you, the fourth page is devoted entirely to sports. It is on this page that the well-known "Tiger Tales" is found.

Not many of us, while we all read and enjoy each issue of The Patriot, realize all the work that goes on behind the scenes. Most of the work is completed in a two-week cycle. On the first Monday of this cycle, the Editor-in-Chief, Michael Fields, gives assignments to the columnists, journalists, and feature writers. These assignments are handed in on Thursday and Friday of the same week. The articles are then copyread by copy assistant, Ruth Ossias, and other staff members. These articles are then sent to the printer. The copy comes back and on the following Thursday, is "Dummied." It is on the "Dummy" night that the paper is laid out in the forms in which it will be printed. Often members of the staff stay until seven o'clock at night "dumming" the paper. On the following day, the paper, with staff members to make final corrections, again goes back to the printer. On Thursday the circulation staff with Circulation Manager Sharon Martin, distributes the copies of The Patriot.

B. Geller, B. Zirkel, M. Fields, Mr. Murphy, and D. Zinn prepare last minute copy.

The Patriot is free to all students with a G. O. There is a charge of five cents to all students without a G. O. To help reduce the cost of publication, the Business Staff has secured advertisements for the paper.

The editors, reporters, columnists, and all other staff members of The Patriot are truly students that Hempstead High can be proud of. Our sincere thanks and appreciation go to the members of The Patriot staff for their fine paper.

HEMPSTEAD HIGH SCHOOL, good morning," are the famous words spoken by the girls on the Principal's Service Squad, who, among many duties, run the switchboard, answering calls from the outside world.

Members are chosen for this squad every spring on the recommendation of their teachers and advisors. They must have reliability, integrity, efficiency, and good manners.

Their duties are to deliver messages, assist in the office and act as receptionists to school visitors.

The present squad consists of seventeen girls advised by Mrs. Pashley.

The members of this squad are proud of the confidence placed in them by the Principal's office.

Circus in View

SINCE its inception in 1934, The Audio-Visual Squad has been a vital part of Hempstead High. Under the capable supervision of Mr. Moore, this group of thirty-four boys operates the motion picture and film strip projectors, phonographs and tape recorders of our school.

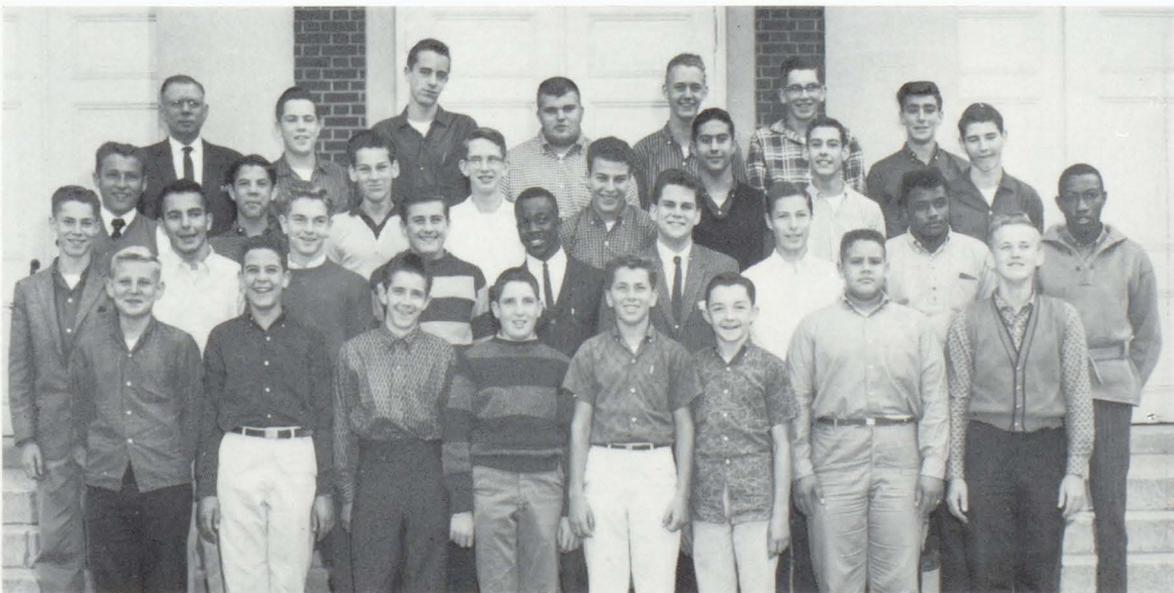

Just as in any sport, it takes team work and co-operation to keep this organization running smoothly. Each member is responsible for his own assignment. He must get to the proper place at the proper time. After each boy is taught how to operate the machines correctly, he puts this knowledge into practical use every day.

The students of Hempstead High School are fortunate to have a group of dependable boys such as these.

THE Junior Red Cross is a worthy group of students who collect for such funds as the Community Chest and the March of Dimes. From each homeroom a Jr. Red Cross representative and alternate were chosen to perform the task. They collected money and useful items, such as pencils, candy, combs, and other objects to fill Christmas stockings for veterans hospitals. The members also collected for the Red Cross, which puts the money to good use by helping people in need, those who are sick, and those in disaster areas. They also have planned other worthy projects to carry out the aim of their organization.

THOSE busy girls seen rushing through the halls with attendance slips and messages for the classrooms are the Junior Secretaries.

This year the Junior Secretaries are divided into two groups consisting of about thirty girls in each. One group in Office 2 is under the direction of Miss Wolfe and the other in Office 3 is under the direction of Mrs. Pilkington.

The Junior Secretaries, chosen because of their reliability and integrity, are recommended by their teachers and the guidance department.

Many responsibilities and duties of the Junior Secretaries are: receiving visitors, delivering slips and messages, answering the telephone, placing attendance calls, and ushering at Open House.

The girls in this honorary position are students that Hempstead High certainly can be proud of.

THE girls who compose the Counselors' Service Squad are always eager to assist in any way possible. They help out by answering telephone calls, typing lists and notices, sorting and filing schedule cards, and serving as messengers and receptionists.

These girls are advised by Miss MacDougall. Many things are taken into consideration before a girl is chosen to become a member. She must have a pleasing personality, satisfactory grades in all subjects, a good attendance record, willingness to work, and the ability to serve both the faculty and her fellow classmates cheerfully and efficiently.

Each member of the Squad can gain in many ways from this office procedure. The services the girls perform are most helpful and necessary in running a smooth and efficient office.

If you have ever wandered into this office, you have probably been met by a very efficient member of the squad. Under the direction of Miss Ronnerman and Miss Oswald, these girls do everything from filing, running errands, and directing new students around the school to licking envelopes. In exchange for giving up one period a day these girls learn many valuable facts pertaining to college and office work.

But working on this squad is not all work and no play. The members get together once a year to have their annual party. Gifts are exchanged, refreshments are served, and everybody has a great deal of fun. In this way the Counselors prove that the squad's efforts do not go unappreciated.

THIS year Hempstead High School is proud to have an exceptional Library Staff. The teachers recommend girls to participate as members of this staff, and Mrs. Cullen, their helpful advisor, selects them.

The chief is usually a girl who is particularly interested in library work, and would like to continue it in the future. Donna Brown holds the position this year.

The Library Staff renders many services to the students and teachers, which are: keeping the shelves in order, taking attendance, checking books in and out, running errands, assisting student in choosing books and finding information, and performing many other services.

We are grateful to our Library Staff for outstanding work; a necessary group, of course, they are, moreover, a tribute to our school.

Circus Shutterbugs

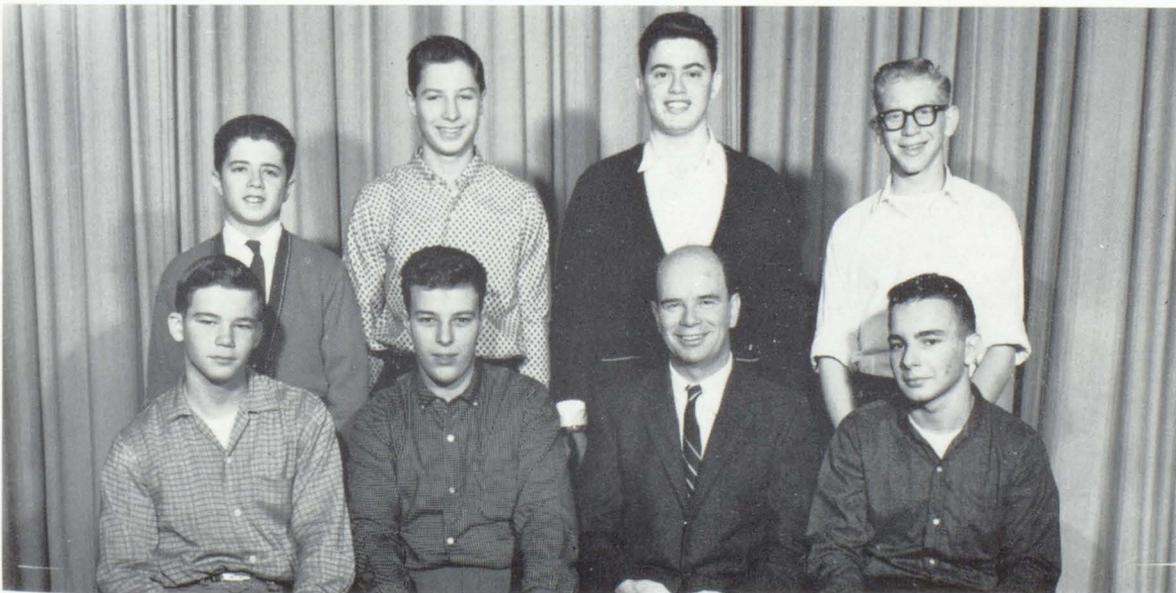

SOME day a few of the students of Hempstead High School will become professional photographers or excellent amateurs. They will have been members of the Camera Club, which is directed by their experienced advisor, Mr. Smith.

During the year these "camera bugs" have taken scenic trips to such spots as Bear Mountain. There they captured some prize-winning photographs which were later developed and enlarged in the high school darkroom. Those active young men further contributed to their school by taking photographs of important school events. The money they earned helped them to finance their trips. With a busy schedule such as this, the Camera Club had a very successful year.

Secretaries to the Trainers

EVERY year a group of junior and senior girls is chosen to assist the teachers. These girls must be recommended by their shorthand teachers for their competence, integrity, and reliability.

Each head of a department is assigned a secretary. These teachers assign work that must be done every day. This work includes filing, mimeographing, note-typing, cutting stencils, doing master copies, multiple carbons, and working the necessary machines. The girls are trained to lessen the teacher's work and at the same time are given experience so that they will be better prepared for jobs outside the school.

Mrs. Friedman was the advisor for the first semester and Mrs. Gaffga for the second semester. It is the advisor's job to see that every girl does her assigned work and does it well.

Assistants to the Trainers

THE Secretarial Service Squad has typed and stenciled the tests and exams we have taken throughout the year. After stenciling the tests, this group of girls proofreads them and then types the master copy. The girls are also familiar with operating various other types of machines.

Mrs. Friedman was in charge of this squad for the first semester and Mrs. Gaffga for the second semester.

Although being a member of this squad is considered an honor, it carries with it a great deal of responsibility. Each girl must report to the mimeo room one specific period a day. She is responsible for all the work done that period.

Only certain students that possess trustworthiness and ability are chosen. After graduation these girls are well prepared to enter the secretarial field.

Registrars of Events

THE Senior Service Squad, one of the busiest groups around, is a very helpful group in our school.

Working under the direction of Miss Duryea in the Registrar's office, the fourteen girls in this squad do just about everything: filing and alphabetizing schedule cards, running errands, acting as hostesses to the many people with whom they come in contact, and efficiently doing any job asked of them.

Miss Duryea has helped the girls in her office to gain efficiency, competence, and a sense of responsibility. These girls are known for giving a hospitable welcome to the visitors to their office which has become a very important place for college-bound seniors.

THE purpose of the Art Club is to give interested art students an opportunity to experiment with a wide range of materials, to learn new technical processes, and to acquire a better understand of art in general. This year, under the guidance of our new art teacher, Mrs. Belfer, the members of the Art Club have accomplished much in this direction. They spent their first semester doing intensive work in enameling on copper; first, learning the process; second, becoming familiar with the actual handling of materials; and, finally, applying their knowledge creatively to jewelry—earrings, pins, pendants, and cuff links. The second semester consisted of work in oil painting, textiles, and block printing.

THE Radio Club of Hempstead High is an organization of boys who have a special interest in the field of communications. The members of this club repair and keep in good working order receivers and transmitters. While doing this, they gain a practical knowledge in electronics. Under the supervision of Mr. Lind, many of the boys will learn enough to qualify for a "ham" license.

This year's main project was the disassembling of some obsolete equipment for parts which the members use in their own "set ups." The experience that the boys gain will help many of them in their future occupations.

Many schools are not as fortunate as we for they do not have such an active organization as the Radio Club.

The Riflemen

THE Rifle Club of Hempstead High School was founded in 1935, in order to teach the basic safety of the handling of fire-arms. Instructed and counseled by Mr. Voorhies, the members of this club learn proficiency in one of the most popular sports of our time.

In conjunction with the National Rifle Association and the federal government, the club receives its ammunition through the defense department.

The size of this club has always been comparatively large. When the population of Hempstead was larger it was not unusual for the club to have 200 to 300 members. Of course, when our total population decreased, the overall number of members also decreased.

THE Varsity Club aims to promote a closer relationship between the athletic and academic division of school life, to help the members of the club obtain college scholarships, and above all, to establish a better feeling of sportsmanship between the student spectators and the athletes.

In order to become a member of the Varsity Club one must have been awarded a varsity letter in any of these varied sports: football, basketball, rifle, bowling, track, golf, tennis, and baseball. The requirements for a varsity letter may vary for each sport, but usually after one has participated for a full season, he has earned a letter.

The advisor of the club, Mr. Scheussler, helps the members with much of the club's activities.

The Club meets eighth period and presents mathematical oddities and valuable mathematical information to its members. It gives help to future engineers and scientists and gives the members an advantage over the non-members in the regular math courses. Its ranks are made up of freshmen and sophomores who are ambitious and eager to learn new concepts beyond those required in the syllabus of the courses attended during their regular schedule. It is easy to perceive bright futures for these bright students.

This year, under the direction of Mr. Holtz, the members of the Stamp Club met once a month. Among their interesting activities were buying, selling, and trading of unusual stamps.

The club, which has very excellent officers, is becoming quite expert in dealing with rare and unusual stamps. One of the highlights of this year's program was the holding of stamp auctions. The excitement of this bidding completed an eventful year.

THE Health Service Squad consists of eleven girls who, under the guidance of our school nurse, Miss Best, learn all they can about nursing by working in her office. Although their jobs may not seem as important as a real nurse's, their help is very needful in our school.

Like other service squads, this group of girls performs a service which is greatly appreciated by all of those who have received help in this office.

Their duties consist not only of taking temperature, preparing beds, and tending to ill students, but also of filing, running errands, and assisting with physical examinations.

The reward that these girls receive for their work is one which many others envy, namely experience.

HOW often have you, at the last possible moment, dashed anxiously to the Blue and White Corner to buy notebook paper, graph paper, a banner, or a review book? Everyone at one time or other has been glad that the school runs that handy store near the main stairway.

Twenty-one years ago the Blue and White Corner was organized and run by the G. O. Thirteen years ago, the cooperative retailing department took it over. There the retailing students gain the experience of bookkeeping, stock controlling, handling cash, advertising, and selling. Under the able supervision of Mr. Davidson, the Corner has flourished in its policy of selling items at or below their original cost.

HERE at Hempstead, there is a fine math club called the Tupiar, which is under the direction of Mr. Hayes. During the meetings the students are taught branches of math which are not covered in the regular courses. Basic concepts of analytic geometry are discussed as well as the use of the slide rule and many other matters. Qualifications for membership are, that the student must have taken, or be taking, intermediate algebra, and, of course, have a liking for mathematics. Whatever the reason for joining, the Tupiar offers an excellent opportunity for its members to increase their knowledge, and at the same time partake in a great deal of enjoyment.

ONE of the most active clubs in Hempstead High School is the Future Nurses Club, whose purpose is acquainting girls with the opportunities offered in nursing and helping them to decide if they belong in this field.

This year there were three field trips planned, including a visit to two hospitals, a nursing school and a navy ship. At the end of the year a party was given and the new officers for the next year were elected.

Under the guidance of Miss Best the officers of this club have contributed in making this club one of the best and most active.

ONE of the largest and most active clubs of Hempstead High School is the Future Teachers of America. The F. T. A. is composed of those students who have professed an interest in entering the teaching profession.

Since there are so many active members, the club is divided into three smaller groups, which meet once a month, on separate days, under the expert guidance of Miss Mabel Winter, who is assisted by Mr. Robert Keenan. There is the Peter Cooper F. T. A. for juniors and seniors, the Esther P. Greenlund F. T. A. for sophomores, and the Horace Mann F. T. A. for freshmen.

As in previous years, all three F. T. A. groups have engaged in a variety of educational activities.

In November, most of the members attended the LIFE (Long Island Future Educators) meeting held at Great Neck's Southside Senior High School, where they attended workshops and discussed different aspects of education.

At the October meeting of the Peter Cooper F. T. A. and at the December meeting of the Horace Mann and Esther P. Greenlund F. T. A.'s, Dr. Sheldon spoke on the importance of teaching.

Members of the F. T. A. groups ushered at the P. T. A. Open House in December and at Dr. Kincaid's teas for the new teachers.

Highlight of the annual Christmas party was the guest speaker, Miss Lowery from Queens College, who spoke on music education.

In January, members of the Peter Cooper F. T. A. made a short trip to Jackson School in Hempstead to observe the instructional methods of various teachers. It proved to be a very interesting and educational excursion. Pro and con panel discussions were held; there were film slides, college talks and various other meetings devoted to the field of teaching. The year's activities ended with a close-of-the-year party and at that time, awards were presented to some of the members for their outstanding services to the club.

Two scholarships were also awarded by the Hempstead Classroom Teachers Association to two graduating seniors who planned to enter the teaching profession.

JUNIOR and senior girls who intend to become secretaries are members of the Key Clickers. The members meet once a month to discuss any problems that may concern the club.

The girls, under the supervision of Miss Jones and Mrs. Gaffga, do many tasks for their school and community such as secretarial work for the Chamber of Commerce, which always proves to be of great help to the merchants of Hempstead, and alphabetizing report cards which is very helpful to the school.

A job well done was rewarded by a visit to New York to see a play, a trip to Bear Mountain, and a Christmas party with entertainment provided by Rose Marie Reichner and Karen Kryla.

THE organization which has previously been known as the Commercial Club is now known as the Business Club. The advisors are Miss Bringhurst and Miss Degenhardt, who look after the arrangement of all social activities concerning the club.

There are twenty-five members at the present time in this club, most of whom are sophomores.

Some of the many activities that have gone on this year during the meetings were discussion groups pertaining to business practices and several parties during holiday seasons. During Regents Week several of the members, together with members of the Key Klickers, traveled to New York City to see the Broadway play, "My Fair Lady."

THE oldest club in the school, founded in 1921, is the Senior Science Club. Here juniors and seniors may take part in experiments not performed in the classrooms. More technical apparatus and effects are demonstrated. One of these was the demonstration of a ripple tank, which illustrates the action of sound waves. One of the highlights of the year was the trip to Brookhaven National Laboratory, on which many of the club's members went. At the next meeting, their observations at the Laboratory were discussed. Different members made reports on the subjects that had interested them the most. This active and educational club is under the able direction of Mr. Faust.

THE Junior Science Club, supervised by Mr. Lawson, serves freshmen and sophomore students who are interested in science and would like to further their knowledge in this field. The club shows movies on all fields of science and does experiments to prove theories. These activities are carried out during the meetings once a week. With the dues collected the club pays for various field trips taken to points of interest. This club makes a valuable contribution in this time of pressing need for more scientists and research workers. These future scientists under excellent guidance gain important knowledge of scientific theories and facts and increased interest in scientific discoveries.

THE Footlight Club, composed of aspiring young Thespians, is Hempstead High's dramatic art club. At every other meeting, under the able direction of their advisor, Mr. Barber, they put on short plays or scenes from longer productions. The other meetings are devoted to lectures by speakers on acting and the theatre.

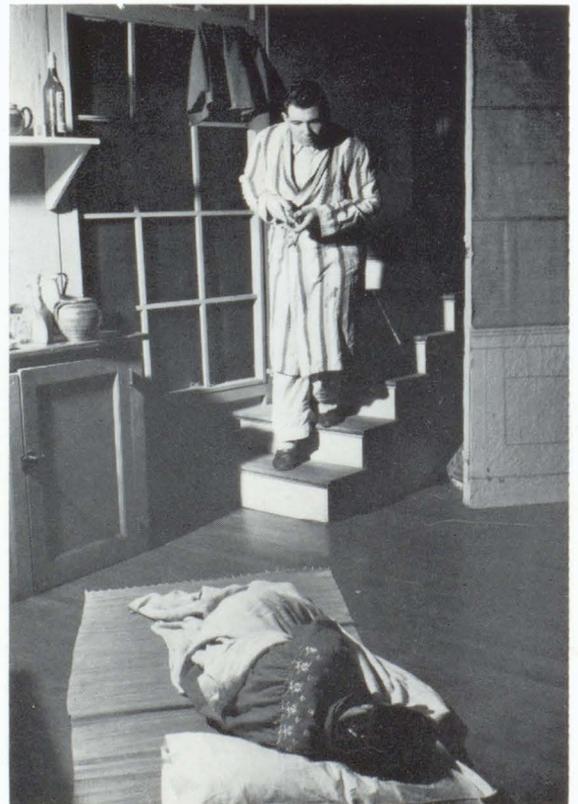

Much of the club's energy has been taken up with this year's two school plays, "She Stoops to Conquer," an English classic comedy, directed by Mr. Barber and "The Diary of Anne Frank," a dramatization of Anne Frank: A Diary of a Young Girl, directed by Mrs. Zinn. The proceeds from both plays went to helping the Activities Fund.

ALL students who have completed one year of French are eligible to join Le Cercle Francais, which is under the guidance of Mrs. Young.

Among their varied activities were the annual trip to New York City, the composition and presentation of a French play, and a trip to the French Art Theater, with dinner afterwards.

Members of Le Cercle Francais, with the assistance of the French classes, collected money for "La Famille," an orphanage in Sedan, France. This is an annual Christmas project.

The purpose of this club is to encourage French students to enjoy and appreciate French and to learn more about French culture.

DER DEUTSCHE KREIS under the guidance of Fraulein Gunther and Herr Leusch has fulfilled its purpose of creating more interest in the language and customs of the German people.

The programs offered by the club have been numerous. Highlights of the meetings included a colored slide talk given by Mr. Daniel Beckett; a trip to New York City to see "The Threepenny Opera"; a Christmas program, including a short skit about the comic character, "Til Eulenspiegel," followed by the singing of Christmas carols, conducted by Herr Leusch; a spelling bee in German; a showing of the film "Singen des Deutschland," and a trip to a local theater to see a German movie.

LAST year you may have asked, "Who were these clowns roaming about the hall in sheets?" Actually those "sheets" were "togas" and those "clowns" were the capable officers of the Latin Club. Assisted by Miss Winter, the members of this club easily manage to throw off the cares of the school day in order to have fun. One of their favorite meetings of the school year was an imitation of a Roman ceremony. The Romans would probably turn over in their graves if they saw those satires of their pomp and splendor, but the members, like the Romans, enjoy a good time.

ONE of the leading clubs of Hempstead High is the Spanish Club. Under the leadership of Mrs. Stilger, the club had a year of varied activities.

The members attended two plays, dined at a Spanish restaurant in New York, and visited the Hispanic Museum, and the Cloisters.

They celebrated Christmas with their annual Piñata. Also, a skit was performed by several members who acted out television commercials in Spanish.

This year, supervised by Mrs. Stilger, the girls prepared a traditional Spanish meal—arroz con pollo (rice with chicken).

Some members participated in Spanish plays and contests sponsored by Hofstra College.

JUNIOR and senior girls who maintain an average of 90 per cent make up the membership of the Pen and Ink Club. One of the many services which the club performs under the leadership of their advisors, Mrs. Stilger and Miss Abott, is the publication of the handbook. This year's editor was Francis Negler and the manager was Lyn Gerson.

At the induction ceremony at the beginning of the year, the members swore to live up to the motto of the club's scholarship and service. Their many activities included the annual Mother-Daughter Tea and a theater party to see "A Raisin in the Sun."

ONCE a month, the senior-junior honor club met under the direction of their advisor, Mr. Fish. Maintaining an average of 90 is one of the requisites of the club.

The members have gone to an informal lecture by a famous pianist, and have also had other guest speakers. They have gone to lectures at the colleges in the city, and have visited museums and nearby places of historic interest.

Two prizes were awarded by the club at the end of the school year. One went to the senior boy with the highest average mark in the club and the other went to the person who had best represented the ideals of the club throughout the year.

THE Pallas Club, one of Hempstead High's five honor clubs, is a credit to our school. This organization has a student body of sophomore girls who have received high scholastic achievement in their freshman year.

With Miss Gunnerson as their advisor, these girls perform their usual tasks of selling programs at football games, ushering at the P. T. A. "Open House," and engaging in many other activities which make them in demand around our school.

Also included in the Pallas Club's busy schedule of activities is visiting New York City and attending a Broadway play. The members of the Pallas Club agree that their club is certainly something outstanding.

THE Junto Club is the sophomore boys' division of the honor clubs of Hempstead High School. All together there are six honor clubs serving those students who have maintained a high scholastic average. Junto, like the others, has as its purpose, the furtherance of scholarship, cultural interests, and service to the school. The qualified members are the school's leaders and they are the ones on whom the future of our community and country depends.

Under the expert guidance of their advisor, Mr. Leusch, and their officers, the Junto Club has had many interesting, stimulating, and informative meetings. All of the members who attended monthly received not only intellectual stimulus, but also had an enjoyable time.

THE Freshman Honor Club is a new organization at Hempstead High. It is the combination of the freshman boy's honor association, formerly called the Pathfinders, and the freshman girls' club, previously called the Pioneers.

This group is composed of students who have an average of 90 percent or better for the first marking period.

The club this year tried to give the average student a better understanding of, and a desire for, high scholastic achievement.

Under the guidance of Mr. Lacombe, the club held various parties and attended interesting lectures by distinguished spokesmen. By these efforts the club gave its members better preparation for the future.

The Circus Historians

THIS year several juniors and seniors who were interested in history approached Mr. Fish and asked him if he would be willing to serve as the advisor of a history club. He consented and the first meetings proved the club successful. With no precedent to guide them, the students chose the name Clionian in honor of the Greek muse of history, elected officers, and wrote a constitution and by-laws.

The club, open to juniors and seniors, was limited to a membership of twenty. The purpose of the club is to promote an understanding of history by undertaking an extensive program of research on a particular subject. This year the Civil War was studied.

Money Lenders

OF the many clubs that meet once a month in our school, there is one organization that primarily serves the retailing students. This organization accepts members on the cooperative program in order that they may get working experience for which they, the students, receive an extra unit of credit.

There are forty-five students participating in this program, many of whom will continue their employment after graduation as department managers, assistant buyers, or in other retailing jobs. Their work is supervised by the High School Distributive Coordinator, Mr. Davidson.

This year, the retailing students produced a film for the National Association of Manufacturers which will be shown on television on a nationwide basis.

FOR thirty-five years, Hempstead High School has had a group of boys who have given up their study halls to serve their school. These boys are expected to make sure that no one walks through the halls without a signed pass. It is their job to guide visitors to the school, and to be sure that no one enters or leaves the building without proper authority.

During lunch period, a group of these boys stays outside, patrolling the rear and front of the school. Anyone who has tried to enter the building ahead of time, knows well that the campus squad is doing its job efficiently.

Under the capable supervision of Mr. Fish, this organization has faithfully carried out its job. As in the past Hempstead High School will continue to be proud of its Hall Patrol.

SECTIONALS, the word most heard of down in the bandbox, are believed to be by some students, unimportant; but the majority of music students know that without these special practices in the early morning and during eighth period, the wonderful concerts and bandshow, given every year, would not be as great as they are.

The orchestra, as in past years, has concerned itself with many musical activities. They presented their annual Christmas concert during which the popular Christmas music from Handel's "Messiah" was performed, as well as music from the works of Beethoven and the ever popular Christmas carols.

For the annual Spring Concert, the orchestra performed the "Song of Democracy" by Howard Hanson, the last movement from a Beethoven Symphony, "Song of Affirmation" also by Hanson, and two pieces by Dr. Arthur Frackenhohl; "Piano Variations" and "Jubilant Overture."

In March, the orchestra was invited to attend a music convention held at Atlantic City, New Jersey. There, Howard Hanson conducted the orchestra in his "Song of Democracy."

The one person who should be given the credit for these wonderful concerts and for the orchestra's prestige is the director, Miss Boyle, of the music department. After every concert, Miss Boyle immediately plans for the next major event. Besides planning the program for each concert, Miss Boyle also plans the program for the Band Show.

This year the music department was honored to have in its midst Dr. Arthur Frackenpohl, a young composer, who was sponsored by the Ford Foundation. He was one among eight different composers sent to different schools around the United States by the Ford Foundation. Dr. Frackenpohl wrote pieces for our orchestra and band to play. If the music proved successful, it would be distributed to other schools, and in time, published.

All this recognition of our music department by the Foundation and by other sources could not be, if it weren't for the dynamic guidance of Miss Boyle and the determined efforts of the orchestra's participants.

In saluting the work of this group, one can honestly say that it has performed this year, as always, admirably and competently.

A Thousand Voices

If you were to walk into the band box about one half hour before your classes start, you would be surprised at the flurry of action going on there. Some students would be carrying various instruments, while others would be rushing into a room which has two doors. Both of these doors are labeled "Choir." If you stayed outside of those doors for just a few minutes, you would hear the choir practicing for their next production.

stead High has given us many thrilling and breath-taking experiences through their moving performances. Under the expert direction of Miss Esther McQueen, our A Capella Choir has achieved its present success.

Every year at Christmas time, the A Capella Choir gives every student at Hempstead High an unforgettable experience. This year their excellent performance was accompanied by "Old Man Weather." While he was blowing up quite a snow storm outside, the choir sang the old familiar Christmas Carols. As if this were not beautiful enough, they sang for us the beautiful Mendelsohn Hallelujah.

This year, in the spring, the Music Department put on a musical pageant in which the A Capella Choir took an active part. Their first number was the "Song of Affirmation" by Norman Dello Joio. After this they sang Howard Hanson's "Song of Democracy." In accordance with "The Contemporary Scene" theme, they sang a number of songs by Dr. Arthur Frackenpohl, who was one of the winners of the Ford Foundation's Composers' Project for young composers. This added honor of giving the first public performance of "Three American Folk Songs" did not seem to turn their heads, since they gave their usual fine performance.

Perhaps the high spot of the year for the A Capella Choir was an exciting trip to Atlantic City. There, along with the school orchestra, they gave a brilliant performance on March 19, 1960. The occasion was the Biennial Meeting of the Music Educators National Conference. During this conference a General Session was devoted to the Composers' Project of the Ford Foundation Program. Hempstead was one of the twelve schools chosen by the Ford Foundation. In this, and every session, Hempstead High was well represented by its fine A Capella Choir. Their excellent voices, in combined harmony, will always leave a lasting impression.

DURING the fall months members of the Hempstead High School Band, under the direction of Mr. Albinski, are busily practicing for the annual bandshow which is presented during the half-time of every home football game.

This past fall, the band presented a show dedicated to Hawaii. With the beat of the drums, the band marched onto the field, forming a block formation to the tune of "Strike Up the Band." Forming the word Aloha!, the band swung into the Hawaiian tune "Aloha Oe." While the band played the lively "Hawaiian War Chant," the twirlers performed their rendition of the cha-cha-cha. To the tune of "Stars and Stripes Forever," both band and twirlers marched off the field ending an enjoyable performance.

In October, the band had the honor of presenting this show at the New York Giants opening home football game at Yankee Stadium and at a night football game at Mitchell Field Stadium.

This year, as in the past, the band performed at the annual Spring Concert. Some of the many concert pieces played by the band were: "Chester," an overture for band by William Shuman; "Avant Garde," by the music department's own Mr. Strickland.

FOOTBALL games are loads of fun, as everyone knows. Cheering with the cheerleaders adds a gay atmosphere to this occasion. Naturally, the game is the center of attraction, but what follows the game in rank? You guessed it, the band show.

As you probably know, by some accomplishment in your life, it takes a lot of hard work and practice to achieve a goal. Our four groups of twirlers, which are Drum Majorettes, High Steppers, Majorettes, and Twirlettes, are required to attend rehearsals during summer vacation, after-school, and on Saturdays. Making your body co-ordinate with your twirling is a difficult task. Although all this practicing is a tedious job, the girls endure it, bring about praised results.

Heading the Music Department and doing a wonderful job, as usual, are Miss Imogene Boyle, Mr. Kazmier Albinski, Mr. William Strickland, and Miss Esther McQueen. This year they based the theme of the band show on our new, fiftieth state, Hawaii.

The show opened with the roll of the drums and the shrill tone of herald trumpets. Before you knew it, striped batons were glittering in the sun as the twirlers did their marching routine. The red, white, and blue flags swishing in the breeze, and making a rustling sound, were another main event. Next on the agenda was the attraction of the band show that everyone waited for, the kickline. Much precision and skill was needed as the girls did the kickline to the cha-cha-cha. Our high school's debut of the Hawaiian Hula came next. The applause was jubilant, honoring the girls. The twirling routine was followed by a formation of a star. The star enclosed flag-bearers who stood quietly with everyone else while the band played a patriotic song. Then again the drums rolled and everyone marched off the field. This brought an end to the show.

For the past twenty-five years our band show has been presented in New York's Yankee Stadium. This tribute was televised, and enjoyed by all who saw it. Their spectacular performance acclaimed them to be one of the leading shows in the country.

Also, for the first time, Hempstead High School's band show performed at Mitchel Field Air Force Base, for one of their football games. Their routines were praised by all.

For the second year in a row, the Hempstead-

Freeport football game was televised. Like last year, the weather was rainy and the field was soggy. The show was broadcasted throughout greater New York. There was a third event that was not like last year, however, Hempstead didn't lose. We tied 12-12.

It is a well known fact that our Hempstead High School has one of the most outstanding bandshows in the country; and we are proud that they are a part of our school. Their continuing efforts will always bring fame and recognition to us, our music department, and our school.

SEVERAL girls dressed in short blue dresses ran quickly out into the field. Two of them, Sandy King and Joan Piponidis, picked up megaphones and yelled into them, "Let's have a Hempstead cheer!"

This may seem easy to those who don't know the long hours the cheerleaders spend practicing these cheers with the adept guidance of Miss Dorwin. However, it all proves worthwhile when they know they have fulfilled their task of promoting good school spirit.

In addition to the Varsity cheerleaders, Hempstead is also very proud of the J. V. cheerleaders. At every home football game, the J. V. cheerleaders cheer with Varsity cheerleaders.

This year the students were surprised by the addition of boy cheerleaders. Their strong voices gave the Varsity cheerleaders an added boost.

The Tigers Roar

THIS year, as in many previous years, football has been the major sport at Hempstead High. Thanks to the fine participation and sportsmanship of the boys on the varsity team, Hempstead spectators have been able to witness some very fine teamwork at the football games, both at home and away at other schools.

This past football season found our varsity team fairly successful, after playing seven league games with other high school teams on the Island. With four defeats the Tigers placed third in the Double-A Conference.

of the season, we had for our opponent, Chaminade, in a non-league game. The game was well-played by both sides, but in the end we lost to Chaminade.

But with Uniondale and East Meadow, Hempstead proved to be the glorious victor.

Back at home we emerged victorious over our opponent, Baldwin.

Our next game saw us defeated after a close game with Oceanside.

One of the more important games played this season was that played with our long standing rival, Freeport. Televised throughout the New York area, the game resulted in a tie-score after a hard-fought game.

At Lawrence and Mepham the Tigers once more were defeated after an action-packed game.

This season, much of the action-filled moments can be attributed to George Truicko, Steve Buckley, Joe Blocker, and Horace Greene. The fine defensive and offensive action of the rest of the team, combined with enthusiastic school spirit, can well be included as major factors for their fine performance.

Every year our finest players have received recognition from our local newspapers and this year Joe Blocker, Steve Buckley, and George Truicko were named to several all-star teams. Other members of our team were also mentioned in relation to "all-scholastic" teams. These honors have brought much prestige to our school as well as to the recipients.

The success of our football team can be attributed to its fine coach, Mr. Schuessler. For his many efforts in establishing a tough football squad, he alone should be thanked.

With the return of such players as Joe Blocker, Bill Shellard, and Richard McElrath, our chances of a successful season next year seem imminent.

At this time we would like to extend our congratulations and appreciation to the whole team for its efforts and express our best wishes for continued success.

Championship Juggling

THIS year Hempstead High School's basketball team again turned in a terrific record. Under Mr. Mills coaching, the team turned in a nearly perfect 21-1 record.

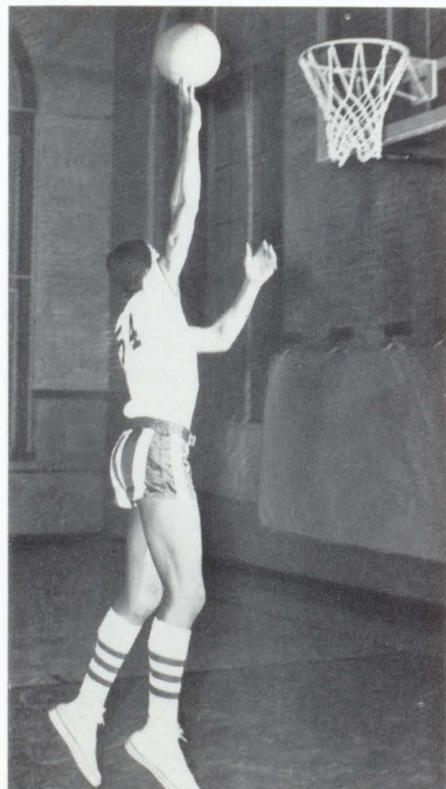

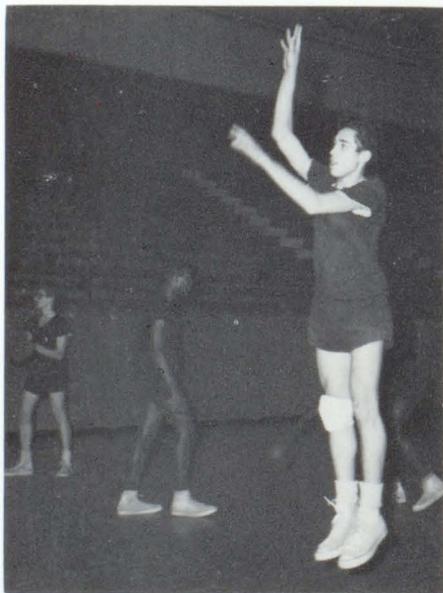

Although lacking height, the team showed great spirit and a smooth-working zone defense. The entire season displayed the effectiveness of hard work, determination, and team effort.

During regular league play the Tigers had a perfect 18-0 record. The victories displayed the effectiveness of the smooth working zone in that many of the games were won in close, low scoring contests.

The Hempstead offense consisted of Joe

Ronnie Ayes makes a jump shot.

Willie Brown taking careful aim.

Blocker, who could be counted on to "hit" from any point on the floor; Jimmy Stewart, with his deadly jump shot; back courtmen Ronnie Ayes and Steve Clarke, who could be counted on for good outside shooting, and Alphonso Burwell and Willie Brown under the board to pull down the rebounds.

Hempstead went into the finals playing their first game against Oyster Bay. The superiority of the Tigers was expressed in a winning score of 43-35.

The next game was played against Manhasset, a North Shore co-champion. Hempstead pulled ahead in the last quarter on foul shooting and held the lead until the buzzer.

The Tigers in the semi-finals met Baldwin for the third time. Proving that the last 2 victories against Baldwin were no accident, Hempstead eliminated Baldwin in a thrilling game.

The finals of the Tournament were held on March 11 against Mineola. In this game Hempstead had to cope with the greatest height disadvantage of the season. Although only losing 15-14 at the end of the first quarter, the Tigers were already showing that this was an off night. The final score showed Hempstead losing by a score of 63-46.

The entire team contributed to this year's outstanding 21-1 record, and will always be remembered at H. H. S.

The Crack of the Bat

BASEBALL has been a popular sport at Hempstead High for many years. Sparked by the coach, Mr. John Mills, the players learn that the important thing in the sport is to give the best you have.

In naming the players around the diamond, we have at first base, Tom Pugliese; at second, Roger Golden; playing short stop, Bob Aramini; third base, Bob Hansen; and at home plate, Sal Ambrosio.

The outfield was capably guarded by Art Mason, Joe Blocker, and Dick McElrath.

Our pitching staff was mainly Joe Blocker, Doug Hutton, and Jerry Eranis.

As far as hitting goes, Joe Blocker led the team with a fabulous 450 average. Next to Joe in hitting was Bob Aramini with a 325 average.

Although the Tigers did not have a very good year, we will be watching them next year, knowing that with the return of some very excellent players, success will be theirs.

Bill Shellard and Richard McElrath are given some points by Mr. Schuessler.

Men With Nets

HEMPSTEAD HIGH'S varsity lacrosse team made a good showing in all their games despite injuries sustained by three of the outstanding members of the team before the season had even started. Charlie Muller, the team captain, was laid up and used only sparingly in the season's games because of a badly sprained ankle. Richard Lemkin injured his knee and Leon McKenny broke his leg.

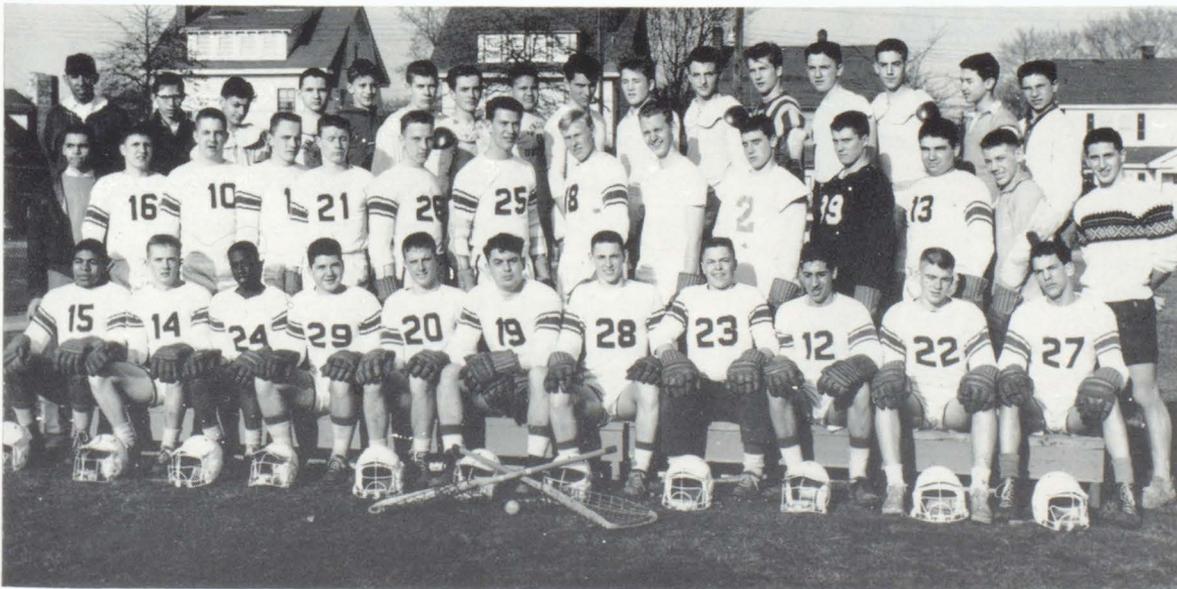

It was under the guidance of Mr. Keenan that the team received its excellent coaching. They started to practice early in February and had their first game early in April with Carey High School. However, next year the outlook is much brighter.

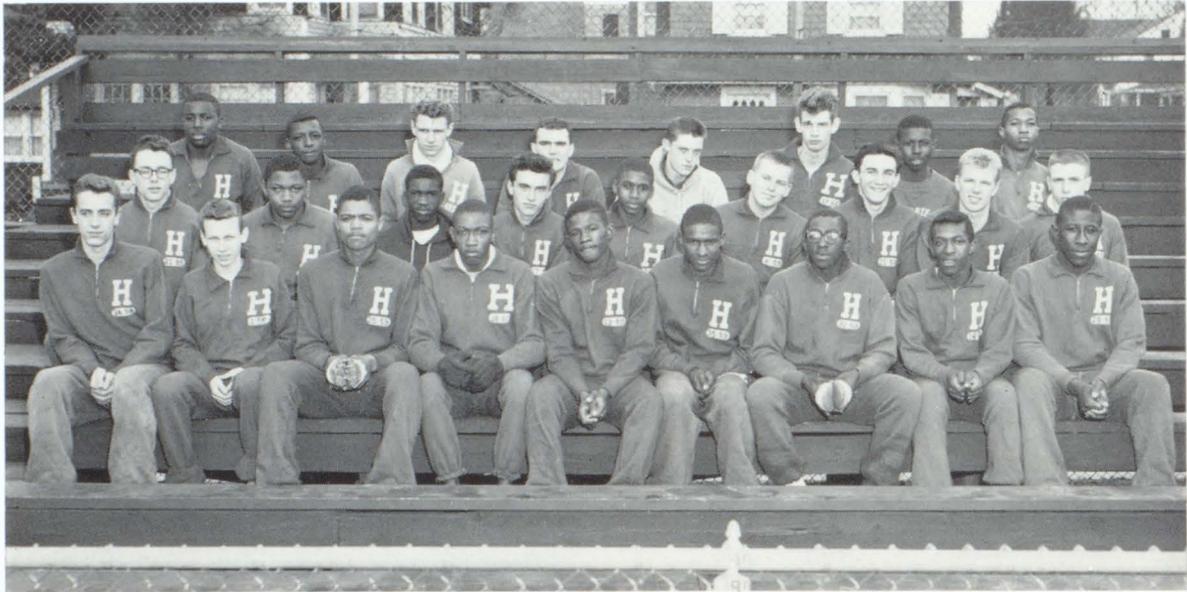

This rapid action sport was originally an Indian game played by the Indians of the Five Nations, who lived in upstate New York. Their game was played with a large number of participants, but now the number of players is limited.

If you were asked which of the many sports in Hempstead High did the most for its participants, the answer would have to be the track team. Under the persistent coaching of Mr. Krause, the boys were quickly brought into excellent physical condition. Each day the boys were put through invigorating exercises aimed at increasing their wind power and strengthening their muscles. These strenuous workouts have resulted in the fine track record of Hempstead High School. This year was no exception as Hempstead High again had a winning season and showed superior ability in the county track meet. During the sports event, Mike Green set a new state record for the pole vault and Hempstead's relay team exhibited speed and smoothness by winning this event against the best relay teams on all Long Island. With such outstanding results the outlook for next year's team is extremely promising.

Sharp Shooting

AMONG all of Hempstead High School's many sports, riflery is one of the least publicized. Though there is little or no audience to cheer the team on to victory, it does quite well. This year the team placed second in the league with a record of seven wins and three defeats. Under the excellent coaching of Mr. Alfred Voorhies, Hempstead has always made a very good showing in this sport. This year's captain was Joe McKervey.

As in every sport at our school, ideals and sportsmanship prove to be the most important factors in competition, for it takes a true champion to lose with as much grace as it takes to win. Certainly it will never be said that the Rifle Team of Hempstead High School has not proved itself worthy of the title "champions." So let us give this team the recognition it truly deserves. This season's scores were:

The Midway Is Open

THIS year Hempstead High School has had a truly fine bowling team. The team, composed entirely of juniors and sophomores, won the championship in its own division. The Junior Varsity also had a winning season this year. Mr. Chambers, under whose coaching the team achieved such proficiency, will certainly have excellent leaders for next year's Varsity. Two players who will certainly fit into his plans are Sandy Catolano, who held high average for this year's varsity champions, and Ross Moore, who came in close behind.

At Center Court

IN the early autumn at the Hempstead Lake State Park, one can hear the dull thud of tennisballs and the swish of swinging tennis rackets. Here on the Park's courts, in competition with tennis teams from other schools, can be found the Hempstead Tennis Team.

Our team came up with a second place tie at the end of the tennis season. The three high scorers were back from last year to strengthen our team. Team captain was Hank Drewal and Mr. Menza was the coach.

On The Green

UNDER the excellent guidance of Mr. Faust, the Golf Club enjoyed a successful year. Though the club did not win the league championship, it finished the season with thirteen wins, one tie, and two losses. In addition, it should be mentioned that Squad Captain Loring Hawkins entered the State Golf Competition at Amsterdam, N. Y., and won the "lucky" position of thirteenth.

Shooting High

HEMPSTEAD'S J. V. Basketball squad has usually done very well for itself throughout the years. But this year they seemed to have considerable bad luck, for they had five wins and thirteen losses in this season. One reason for this was the lack of height.

Sparking the team were Arnold Bergs, Charles Gardiner, Gary Homer, Tom Johnson, and Earl Miller. Under Mr. Krause's guidance, the squad was not only taught basketball, but also a valuable sense of fair play. He also gave them excellent preparation for next year.

Pacemaking

THE broad jump, the 440 dash, the pole vault, the high jump, the 100 yard dash and many other similar track events are extremely popular with just about every student at Hempstead High.

Perhaps the reason why track is so popular here at Hempstead is that not only the Varsity Track, but also the J. V. Track showed what a good team can do. How could we help but get good results with such fine players as our broad jumper, Richard Bookhard; our 440 dash man, Vernal Moore; Horace Green, our pole vaulter; and Frank Harrison, our high jumper?

Excitement always runs high whenever there is a J. V. Track Meet. Each one of us wishes that we could also help the team in some way other than just cheering them on to victory.

Cubs Roar

THE Junior Varsity of 1959 ended its football season quite successfully. They won four of the seven games they played. Uniondale's, Mepham's, Baldwin's, and Freeport's J. V. squads were trounced by the tiger cubs. We lost to Chaminade, Lawrence and East Meadow. The experience and the knowledge of the game of football gained in the Junior Varsity games will be put to good use when the J. V. players move up to the Varsity football squad. The credit for the development of an inexperienced team of freshman and sophomore boys into a strong football squad must be given to Mr. Beck, who whipped the boys into a hard hitting team.

Prima Donnas Perform

MODERN dancing is an amusement or exercise, and in its classical application, an art in which the body and limbs move rhythmically, usually accompanied by music.

It consists of steps, bounds, and inclinations of the body, all the movements being executed with a care designed to make them artistic. Its primary function is an expression of ideas of all types and kinds, through the medium of many movements.

This year there were twenty-five senior girls participating in this after-school activity. Each Monday the girls met to practice their techniques.

Each year the girls get together with the aid of their supervisor, Miss Adolph, and student advisor, Sandy MacDougall, and take on the job of effectively expressing the story, in dance form, of the god to whom the Greek Games is dedicated.

Interpretive Dances

THE Modern Dance Club is open to all girls interested in developing modern dancing techniques and in doing creative work for dance performances. All junior girls are eligible for membership in this club.

Like all other activities, modern dance gives the girls a chance to pick up some extra points while learning some basic fundamental exercises in keeping trim. A girl participating in modern dance can receive for a season's participation a total of fifteen points. If she participates in Greek Games or does a solo dance, each is worth five additional points.

This year the junior girls overtook the senior girls with attendance of thirty-five juniors. These sly junior girls had some very artistic ideas and, when employed, proved to be of a very creative nature. The future looks bright for next year's Senior Modern Dance.

Wardrobe in Readiness

THE gym aides of Hempstead High School prove to be very helpful in the physical education classes, under the guidance of Miss Adolph and Mrs. Reicher.

Each class has approximately six gym aides, one of whom acts as secretary. The secretary takes attendance and gives make-ups.

The duties of the gym aides vary with the changing seasons. In the warm weather they referee baseball and soccer games, and in the cold weather they teach volleyball, badminton, and basketball.

A major event of the school year, known to everyone in Hempstead High, is Greek Games. This comes in the early spring. The gym aides help the girls in learning how to hurdle, throw discus, roll hoops, and to compete in torch races.

The gym aides have contributed much time and effort in successfully completing their jobs.

THE boys aren't the only ones who participate in the different sports activities at Hempstead High. The program of girls' sports is equally outstanding. The sports leaders consist of a group of girls who have been selected because of their outstanding skill and ability in a certain activity. The leaders of the Archery, Badminton and Bowling Clubs this year were Sarah Lawrence, Valerie Carter, and Diane Dluginski respectively. Sandy King, with her big blue and white megaphone, led the Cheerleaders onto the field. The Greek Games were supervised by Elizabeth Regan; Judy Riley was in charge of the Gym Aids. Sandra MacDougall presided over the Modern Dance Clubs. The Ping Pong, Softball, and Volleyball Clubs were under the direction of Eleanor Carol, Pat Liguori and Geraldine Dykes, respectively.

Main Ring Stars

BASKETBALL, one of the favorite extra-curricular activities of Hempstead High School girls, meets twice a week in the girls' gym. The freshmen and sophomores met on Mondays and Wednesdays while the junior and senior girls, met on Tuesdays and Thursdays. Both of these groups were under the direction of their excellent advisor, Mrs. Reicher. These girls learned all the rules and methods of the sport in practice games which were held until the end of the season. It is then that selected members of the lower class played against members of the upper class team. The freshmen and sophomores won with a score of fifteen against twelve. This certainly means that next year the new lower class team will have a tough time beating the junior and senior girls.

Fun For All

Student Leader—Diane Dluginsky

WHO says women are not good bowlers! In our own Hempstead High there is a group of girls who had enjoyed the game so much that a bowling club was formed especially for them.

These girls, under the supervision of Mrs. Cullen and their student leader Diane Dluginsky, met once a week at one of our local bowling alleys. Here they received professional tips from the directors there, learned all they could about the techniques of bowling, and acquired skill in their game.

At the end of the season a tournament was held and the winners were Diane McCormick with a score of 159, Gayle Miller—169, and Diane Dluginsky—200. By the end of the year, the members gained a lot of experience and skill from the club.

The Bouncing Ball

ANY girl who has skill and enjoys good sportsmanship usually finds herself playing ping pong.

With Mrs. Reicher as their advisor, and Elenor Carole as their student leader, these girls soon find that competing with one another improves their standards.

To perfect themselves even more, the girls put on tournaments among themselves to see which "couple" is the most skillful, but whether a winner or loser, the girls always have a good time.

Hit The Target

Student Leader—Sarah Lawrence

BE careful boys! They're natural born Robin Hoods! With Miss Adolph as their instructor, and Sarah Lawrence as their student leader, there's no wonder these girls of the Archery Club have such good aim and always hit their target!

First, the girls work on perfecting their aim and learning how to handle the bow and arrow properly. After this, the girls compete with one another and eventually find the best shot in the club.

Strike Three

Student Leader—Pat Liquori

TWO outs, the bases are loaded, the player rubbed her hands together nervously, the pitch is fair, swung on and batted over the left field fence. This may seem to be major league baseball, but it is actually the Girls' Softball Team.

What can be more American than baseball in the spring? In fact a sure sign of spring at Hempstead High is the Girls' Softball Team practicing after school.

Flying Birdies

AMONG the many activities available to all girls, badminton is one of the liveliest. There's never a dull moment for those who participate in a game of badminton. Mrs. Reicher, with the aid of her student leader, Valerie Carter, makes sure that all are having a good time.

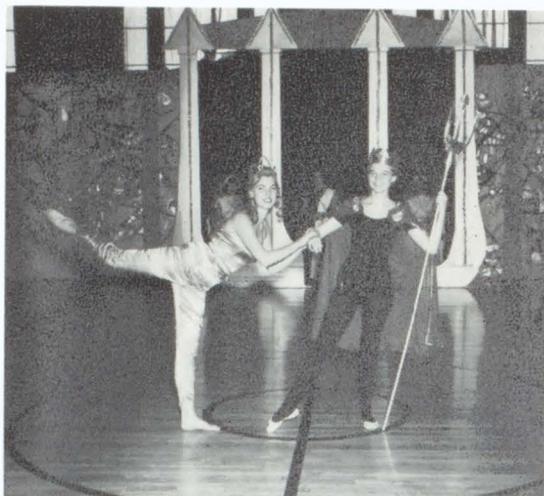

Besides hitting the "Birdie" from one side to another, the girls obtain a fuller knowledge of the rules of the game and a better understanding of sportsmanship.

Olympic Circus

EVERYONE was waiting eagerly for the 1959 Greek Games to commence. First came the processional of the two competing teams which brought their robed priestesses to their majestic temples. The freshmen and sophomore girls who participated in this spectacular spent many long hours toiling to make their entrance the most breathtaking. The prancing entrance "horses" did their best to impress the judges who, as former graduates of Hempstead High, had been asked to judge this annual event. Thus, the entrance of the two teams, the Athenians and Spartans, was an awesome one. The beautifully shaded togas of gold, green, red, and purple added to their splendor. Then the exalting voices of the Girls' Glee Club sang the Greek National Anthem. A moving performance was put on by the members of the Modern Dance Clubs. These girls, dressed in shimmering costumes of underwater creatures, paid tribute to omnipotent Neptune, god of the sea. The rafters rang and the excitement began. The challenger of each opposing team hurried over to their competitors to challenge them to the various athletic events. The competition was strong between the graceful handlers of the discus and the mighty throwers. The nimble hurdlers were there to display their graceful skill. The overpowering stillness that had descended on the audience at the start of the game was broken when the hoop and torch races began. Both the torch and hoop races were judged by which team finished first. Next the Chariot Exhibition was announced and the prancing "horses" showed great skill and dexterity as they went through their paces, led by their charioteers who cheered them on in Latin. The winner of each was judged and then announced. No matter which team won or lost all of the fun gained in participating was their reward.

The Greek Games, which has been a long established custom at Hempstead High, is only one of the many outstanding athletic activities put on by the Physical Education Department.

All the participants spent months of practice to make this night remembered forever. Much credit should be given to the coaches, who lent their experience, gained in previous Greek Games, to the underclassmen.

Under the direction of Judy Oswald and guidance of Mrs. Reicher and Miss Adolph, the Physical Education Department produced a spectacular athletic event enjoyed by everyone.

Peter Krohn

PETER KROHN, the German student from West Berlin came to us under the Herald Tribune Student Exchange Program. To qualify he had to write a composition with a given title.

School in America is somewhat different, it seems, from a German school. At Herdir-schule, Peter took a total of thirteen subjects. He speaks German, English, Latin, and French fluently. He can also make himself understood in Swedish. Peter has very little homework and reports, such as we have. However, he memorizes material we only read; a lot of this work is recited from memory in class. Peter said this may be due to the fact, that German students have no library or study materials in school.

Our music department greatly interested Peter, who plays both the violin and the cello. His school doesn't have an orchestra but this doesn't prevent the students in the German schools from having musical instruction, especially on the string instruments.

Preconceived ideas of Peter's were dispelled when he arrived in New York. He thought we had much less traffic than we do; then he saw the rush hour lines of cars.

Peter's hobbies are photography, swimming and riding bicycles.

His stay here was very interesting, both to Peter and the student body. Hank Drewal, President of the Student Council, was Peter's host and helped make his visit a memorable one.

Custodians

WHO keeps Hempstead High nice and warm? Who sees to it that the blackboards are washed? Who keeps the halls cleared of locker debris? Who figures out a way to get a locker opened when you have locked it with the key inside? Who removes those ugly wads of gum from underneath the seats? The answer to these and many other similar questions is the school custodians.

School would be a miserable place in which to spend about seven hours a day if the custodians didn't keep Hempstead High as clean as they do. Many of us don't realize what a job it is to keep a school the size of ours clean. We don't seem to be able to bend over and pick up a piece of paper when it falls out of our locker. Since today's fashions for both male and female are getting slimmer all the time, this bit of exercise might do us all some good.

If each of us did his or her part the custodians would have more time to spend on more important jobs. Nevertheless, in spite of all the obstacles which we throw in their paths, our school custodians do a wonderful job in keeping our school warm, neat and clean at all times. We all owe them a vote of thanks for their cheerful labors on our behalf.

Ismail bin Ibrahim

ISMAIL, our foreign student from Kelantan, Malaya, was here for three weeks as a guest of Ben Taylor, Treasurer of the Senior Class. He was chosen on the merit of his composition, "How Can I as a Young Citizen Help Contribute to Better International Relationships and Understandings by Learning to Become a Better Citizen."

During his stay he learned more about the American way of life and the people themselves. Some misconceptions that were cleared up were, that we were not giants and that we weren't any more intelligent than people of other nations.

He admired our music department greatly. He remarked that in his school, the Federation Military College, there was no music department. His school did not encourage any musical talent as Hempstead does.

It was Ismail's opinion that family life in the United States was not as closely knit as it is in Malaya and other parts of the Orient. He felt that respect for our elders, especially our parents, was lacking. Ismail also said we were more familiar with our teachers. In Malaya a teacher treats students as inferiors.

Malayan hobbies are the same in most respects as in any other part of the world. Ismail liked photography, rifle shooting, and correspondence with people of foreign lands.

We all received a better understanding of Malayan culture with the help of Ismail and we hope he has learned more about us through his stay here.

Pinky Danforth

THE high stepping, baton twirling, red tasseled "match" that puts the flame in the opening of "Strike Up the Band," has been going to H. H. S. for twelve years. At the age of four she entered the H. H. S. bandshow as a mascot looking forward to the day when she would lead this band onto the field. Of course, then as now, she is everyone's favorite.

For the following five years she continued as the band's mascot, and the only reason she stopped was because this little girl grew right out of her uniform.

As Miss Danforth's career kept rising, so did her experience. At the age of eleven, she became majorette of Smith's Military Band and had won many medals in various contests. Pinky, as she is best known, kept this title and today still twirls faithfully for them. Pinky's most recent appearance with them was at Christmas time. In the midst of the mall in Hempstead, she swayed and twirled.

Pinky, a fifteen-year-old sophomore, is a member of the Choir, and is quite active in extra-curriculum. She was exhibition horse in Greek Games, a star in this year's annual G. O. Show, and is a member of the F. T. A. Pinky won her most recent title last year when she competed with hundreds of other young girls and won the New York State Championship for twirling.

In two years Pinky will have to leave H. H. S., but its memory will linger on.

Cafeteria Squad

ONE of the groups that our school certainly couldn't do without is the Cafeteria Squad. Under the management of Mr. Tobani this group makes and sells our school lunches.

The first thing in the preparation of a school lunch is the selection of a menu. Next the proper preparation of food is worked out. Helping Mr. Tobani are six food attendants and two additional ladies who arrive at school long before lunch time and spend the morning in preparing lunch.

Each day about 11:00, in less than one and a half hours, which proves the efficiency of this squad, lunches are served. Foods from juice to candy are available to students. For only thirty-five cents a student is able to get a hot plate, fruit or juice, milk, bread and butter.

Our thanks go to Mr. Tobani and his efficient squad for the work that they do for the students of Hempstead High School.

The Pen and Ink Club Tea

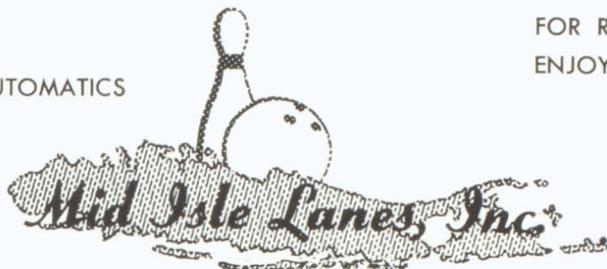

AFTER a few hasty last minute changes the girls of the Pen and Ink Club threw open the doors of the teachers' cafeteria and invited in their mothers. This special occasion was the annual Mother and Daughter Tea.

As the mothers entered the room, they all remarked on the lovely tea table. The girls in the club had done a marvelous job. At either end of the table were the shining silver coffee and tea pots. In the center was a lovely sheet cake decorated with the club's famous ink pot and pen. Surrounding the cake were several kinds of delicious cookies and some dainty tea sandwiches.

The mothers and daughters not only ate, but they were also royally entertained. Two of the girls sang several lovely solos. Another member of the club played the violin. Not only the mothers, but also their daughters were surprised and delighted with the great amount of talent in the club.

After this fine entertainment, Joyce Caro, the president of the club, made a speech. She told the mothers about the many activities of the club. She also informed them of the future plans of the Pen and Ink Club. Before closing her speech Joyce expressed a wish that all the mothers of juniors would be able to come again next year to the Mother and Daughter Tea.

Senior-Frosh Day

ONE way to get better acquainted is to have a party and that is just what the senior girls give for the freshmen girls. This annual event is known as Senior-Frosh Day.

It would seem very strange to those just entering our school to see the confusion of bonnets, bibs, and short skirts, worn by the freshmen girls.

The Frosh brought bags of lollipops to give out to the senior girls, who came dressed as the "mothers" in dainty and frilly aprons, carrying stuffed animals and toys under their arms and searching for freshmen and their lollipops.

After school the senior and freshmen girls gathered in the boys' gym for the big event of the day, the party. Jennifer Joyce, the senior class vice-president, gave a short welcome and wished the freshmen girls luck in their future years at H. H. S. After being introduced, Efna Dornar and Peggy Smeido performed an interpretative dance. Next, Rae DeStefano accompanied by Ben Taylor on the bongo drums sang "Autumn Leaves" and "Speak Low."

The judges were Rae DeStefano, Angel Flemings, Terry Hammond, Jennifer Joyce, Sophie Lukaschewitz, Sharon Martin, Maddy Maturlo, Lynn Odinov, Beth Pugatch, and Pat Schwana-wede.

They chose Tina Lombardi as the freshman with the nicest hair; Kathy Kent, the nicest smile; Ginny Steele, the cutiest freshman; Anita Denisio, the most typical freshman, and Lynn Dosscher, the most original costume.

New Homemaking Club

THIS year the Home Economics Department of H. H. S. is proud to present its new Homemaking Club, established on February 9, by Mrs. Chapman, the advisor.

The officers are: President, Brenda Stiehler; Vice-Pres., Pat McCallen; Corres. Sec., Gloria McElrath; Rec. Sec., Ida Lou Block; Treasurer, Louise Daniels.

The purpose of this club is to advance the knowledge of its members in various areas of homemaking.

Since this club is comparatively new, it is only planning future developments. The members would like to have experts come in and give demonstrations. They expect to have work shops which consist of knitting, crocheting, and sewing, flower arrangements, and cake decorations. The girls intend to take field trips. Right now they would like to visit George's Furniture Store to notice different styles of furniture woods and materials. The club hopes to do work for UNICEF.

At the present moment there are twenty-five members in the club. Brenda Stiehler, the president, won the Betty Crocker Student Award. In order to receive this award, a student must complete a test and receive the highest grade in the school.

Mrs. Chapman would like to have the club join the national organization, FHA.

Math Team

FOR the last two years a new sport has been added to those already representing Hempstead High School. However, this sport is uniquely different from all the others. Instead of competing with physical ability, stamina, and strength, the boys on the math team match their brains against those of the boys from other schools. In each match only five boys compete for each school. Each competitor is given a copy of a math problem. There is a time limit set for each problem. This continues for five problems. Upon their termination, the school with the highest number of correct answers wins. Individual totals of correct answers are also kept and a prize is awarded to any boy who attains five or more correct answers for the season. The 1960 Hempstead team is greatly improved over that of last year and promises an even better team in the future. The team is led by Ira Chorash who has achieved five correct answers, which entitles him to receive a pin appropriated for this honor. Other boys on the team have three or four correct answers. Although only five boys compete at a time, there are nine boys on the team. Each boy is given a fair chance to display his talents at the contests. Let's hope that in future years the team will receive the recognition it fully deserves.

Dr. Arthur Frackenpohl

DURING the past school year you have probably noticed as you entered the Bandbox, a young man about thirty-five occupying one of the rehearsal rooms on the bottom floor. By now you must know that he is none other than Dr. Arthur Frackenpohl, the young composer, who was chosen by the Ford Foundation to remain at our school for one year to compose pieces of music for our music department.

Dr. Frackenpohl received his Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts from the Eastman School of Music and the University of Rochester. He continued his studies in composition and harmony at Fountainebleau, France, where he received First Prize in composition.

For the past ten years Dr. Frackenpohl has been teaching music at the State University College of Potsdam, New York. He received his Doctor of Music from McGill University. Dr. Frackenpohl has since taken leave of absence to accept the grant from the Ford Foundation.

Some of the music that Dr. Frackenpohl has written for our music department is, "To Music," "Three American Folk Songs," "A Thing of Beauty," "Pastorale," "Symphony No. 2 for Strings," "Rhondo for Wind Instruments," and "Marches of Peace."

In expressing our many thanks to Dr. Frackenpohl, we all feel that he has contributed greatly to the success of our music department this year and we take this opportunity to wish him the best of luck the future can hold.

Student-Faculty Basketball Game

THIS year, H. H. S. has had the honor of presenting one of the most handsome and dimpled-kneed basketball teams it's ever seen. With the help of a few corsets and hold-me-ins, the old pros climbed into their uniforms. Among the attractive players were none other than Dr. Sheldon, both O. Mills and J. Mills, Mr. Gangemi, Mr. Scheussler, "Moose" Kraus and a few other daring fellows such as "Step on the gas and go," White. Well, this is enough to split your sides, but wait, this isn't the end. Since the students basketball team, consisting of Jerry Vance, Jackie Carter, Ed Plawski, Alan Fisher, and Mike Felds, had cheerleaders, the faculty did likewise. Captain of this jubilant group was none other than "Tuffy" Church. Co-captain "Iggy" Ignelzi and the fellow members Mrs. Young, "Giddy" Gunnerson, "Candy" Cullen and "Chirpy" Chapman made the audience roar with whistles.

After finishing with the introductions, the game was under way. Royal Benner, serving as the coach, just loved to blow that whistle. After the cumbersome first half the faculty finally managed to acquire one basket, but the score read 22. How's that for being fair? Mr. Zara was there, of course, and with his "Zany Zombies."

On behalf of the faculty and the students we want to thank you all for attending this game and helping us with the new P. A. System.

What Does A Yearbook Mean?

For you, a yearbook means memories. Throughout your life it will help you recall old friends and relive the good times of your student days.

And for your publishers, too, a yearbook means something special. As former members of yearbook staffs, we bring to our professional duties a deep personal interest in the goals of a yearbook editor, as well as a real understanding of his many problems.

To this we add more than a quarter-century of experience publishing many scores of school and college yearbooks. But what we offer you is more than balanced by what you give to us—the happiness of sharing in student projects, the delight of finding each year new and younger friends.
